Details for Remodelled High School Revealed; Referendum on Bond Issue to Be Held June 25

A "new" Princeton High School, a transparent dome arching over its new 90-foot Student Center, but the Gothic detail of auditorium and library affectionately preserved, is on view at the school this week in the form of architect's sketches, for students and staff to approve or criticize.

The public will be invited to comment later. On Tuesday, June 25, voters will decide in a referendum whether to approve a bond issue to finance remodeling of the half-century-old building.

Later this week, the plans will be shown to Borough and Township officials, and the schematic design will be sent to the Facilities Planning Bureau of the state's Department of Education. Here the design will receive a broad review, in which officials will weigh it against the education program set up by Princeton's board of education.

The plans have been drawn in line with "Option 2," of the four options discussed with the public last year. In 1973, the estimated cost was about $5 million. Construction bids can't go out any earlier than January, 1975, so there is an inflation gap of about 18 months between Option 2's estimate, and the chill reality of the successful bid. The school board's architect J. Robert Hillier once observed, "Every day's delay is another thousand dollars."

Remodelling Described. "So far, our plans seem to be what people hoped for," began Joel Spaeth, associate in the Hillier firm, as he walked the press through his drawings and plans for the remodeled school. "But there is no guarantee that every detail here will actually be used."

Enter through the Tower door. The circle drive has been eliminated, and a courtyard paved in its place. The present vestibule opens into a larger, more welcoming lobby. Administrative offices are where they are now, but clearly marked into private-public areas.

What used to be the girls' gym—it's half a level different from the main gym, which makes it a nightmare to move equipment—will be a two-level Media Center. On the first level: audio-visual and TV equipment, audio-visual storage not only for PHS but for the whole school district, carrels for listening and viewing, and stairs to the second level. On the second level: books, reading materials—the main library.

The physical education area will get the most remodeling and new construction; more than any other part of the building. Mr. Spaeth commented on the tremendous range of courses PHS offers in this field, "everything from basketball to karate."

When completed, the phys ed department will be in a single "block," all on one level, with outside access to playing fields. A second gym, large enough for two teaching stations, will be built for teaching and practice; it will not be a "competition" gym.

There will be a new wrestling-gymnastics room, a training room, a special room for corrective physical education, new girls' lockers. (Wrestling and gymnastics are currently in the Valley Road building.)

The health suite will remain the same, but it will be completely renovated. Mr. Spaeth said that "every square foot" of the building will be renovated—floors, ceilings, lights, and so on—whether the area is scheduled for radical remodeling or not.

Arts Studio Planned. Back in the main lobby. In the area where classrooms 120-121 are now the architects will build an arts studio. Windows giving onto the present courtyard will be removed, and part of the courtyard, with a skylight, will be used for bigger studio projects—sculpture, and the like. A fine north light shines here, Mr. Spaeth said. Next to art, will be mechanical drawing and graphics.

The corridor intersection that is the hub of the present high school will be enlarged for more elbow room. Leading from it will be the new 50-90 foot Student Center, which will become the "hub" of the remodeled school. It's the old courtyard, now encircled by classrooms and inaccessible.

Lounge areas, some lockers, a diagonal path leading to stairs that go down to a new snack bar, (maybe a full-time snack bar?) up to various Interest Centers and over the multi-level space, the sky and a transparent "bubble." Since biology and horticulture will be on the second floor, a greenhouse will be visible from all parts of the Student Center, in a kind of glass-dome-within-a-dome effect.

The Center will be ringed by Interest Centers, the Guidance Departments, Special Services, language laboratories. On the side near the auditorium will be a drama workshop. On the side near the Business Education department (with computer facilities) will be the Business Interest Center.

One Floor Up. On the second floor, will be the Math-Science Interest Centers and the English-Humanities Center.

Science labs will be located in the 1955 addition to the building because these walls are easier to manipulate for plumbing and electrical work.

The child care rooms will be where the present guidance department now is. This will give student teachers and toddlers easy access to the outdoors.

"The auditorium is a restoration," Mr. Spaeth says. "New seats, a new and larger stage with space for an orchestra. A stairway off the lobby, so the lobby itself can be locked off during performances—this is important."

The old library will be a restoration, too. Everybody loves the auditorium and the library, Mr. Spaeth observes. It will become a lecture room for large groups, seating about 100. Chairs will be moveable so that the "library" can become a reception room, for student awards perhaps, or for parent receptions. Storage, a kitchenette and conference rooms will support the area.

Further Changes Listed. On the lower level, there will be a snack bar and a student store. The faculty dining-room will be moved to the other side of the present cafeteria so that it will be behind the kitchen. The Home Economics area will be here, close to child-care classrooms one-half flight upstairs.

Where graphic arts and printing now are, the Learning Community will be. At present, it is in the Valley Road building.

The shop area will remain about as it is now. The space will stay the same, Mr. Spaeth says, but it will be better designed, with a "planning" room.

And from the lower level of the school, there will be an elevator, to be used by students who require an elevator, and by maintenance staff moving equipment.

In the Tower? Maybe, in the 15x15 space now a cramped men's faculty lounge—a student radio station.

The outhouses? Gone.

ABOUT THE "CBD"

Plans Discussed. Hoping to hear thoughts and opinions about its new Central Business District proposals, the Planning Board found itself, last Thursday night, listening instead to complaints about Borough Council's decision to amend the zoning ordinance.

In a heated session that lasted until 11:30, various members of the audience (around 40 attended) protested Council's action in re-zoning the Spring-Tulane-Vandeventer area from Residence-Office to Central Business and Residence-4, and asked why Council had amended the zoning ordinance in advance of the CBD proposals.

The gathering was not a Council meeting, but a "briefing session" called by the Planning Board to inform the public about the CBD plans and to get reactions. (Another meeting will be held next Tuesday, April 30). The slide presentation was interrupted frequently by those in the audience who had come to talk about, and to protest, zoning.

Mrs. Olga Hall, owner of Jimmy Hall's Furniture Store, led those protesting the Spring zoning change. With neighbors of the store, she had expressed the same views to Borough Council on April 9. A special Council meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 1, to hear Spring Street residents' views.

No Conflict Seen. Timothy Sheehan (who brought a court reporter to record the meeting) asked, as he has before, why Council had decided to amend the zoning ordinance before introduction of the CBD plans. William H. Walker, Planning Board member, said the board had, as law requires, reviewed the amendments and sent two of them back to Council with the finding that they were not in conflict either with the 1967 Master Plan, or with Planning Board studies now in progress. The third amendment, relating to Charlton Street, has not yet been acted on.

Martin P. Lombardo, Borough Council member who has recently been critical of both planning and zoning boards, asked how many Planning Board members were present. When four raised their hands, he declared that the entire 14-member board should be present and he suggested that the board had already made up its mind about the CBD.

Hans K. Sander, board chairman, who observed that Mr. Lombardo had not attended any of the Planning Board budget meetings although he had initiated the budget procedure, explained the sub-committee structure of the Planning Board and said members of the CBD subcommittee had agreed to rotate their attendance at the public briefing-sessions.

Albert Kahn asked what kind of housing was proposed for the CBD—low-income, middle or high-income—and who would build it. He also asked whether housing planned by Princeton University for the area would be open to the public, or only to University staff.

John P. Moran, for the University, said the apartments would be open to the public. He said no decision had yet been made about a low-middle-high mix.

Mrs. Kathy Edwards asked how trucks could service a University Store located approximately on the Playhouse parking-lot site. She proposed the old Nassau Street School site, on Nassau across from Moore Street, as an appropriate place for a relocated University Store.

Need for Garages Questioned. Robert Powell, Borough Councilman, expressed the fear that parking garages would simply draw more cars into Princeton. His observation had been, he said, that Princeton isn't jammed with parked cars, and he questioned figures showing the need for garages. They might have to be subsidized, he warned, and could become a tax burden. Increasing business activity and housing in the CBD is essential, he emphasized, but he said he didn't think parking garages would help.

He suggested the parking ratio be reduced for restaurants and pointed out that apartment-dwellers might not own cars at all or might use spaces only at night, leaving the stalls for daytime use by others. Praising the plan's provisions for truck delivery, housing and walk-ways, he asked restudy of its transportation sections, particularly in light of Dial-A-Ride and public bus service.

Members of the audience also questioned the reaction of Greenholm residents to the proposed new street, Hulfish extended, that would run south of Greenholm properties to Bayard Lane.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED

By Youth Employment Agency. New officers for 1974 have been elected to the Princeton Youth Employment Service.

They are Mrs. Ruth Shoemaker, president; Herbert Mihan, vice-president; Mrs. Dorothy Dalby, secretary; and Archie Lummis, treasurer. New board members include Mrs. Dalby, Mrs. Pat Case, Mrs. Emily Lambert, Mrs. Margaret Link, Robert Staples, Mrs. Gloria Seitz, V.A. Metelsky and Richard Seldon.

Last year, YES initiated the Municipal Internship Program whereby jobs in government and school offices were provided and funded for 15 students. This year YES and Borough Council and Township Committee will again support this program but on a more limited basis.

The remaining YES funds will be used to give scholarships to seniors interested in entering technical, vocational or business programs.

Political Slates Nearly Full—Two Councilmen Will Not Run Again

New names will be on the ballot this fall in both of the Borough's political parties. Neither of the two council incumbents—both Republican—will run for re-election.

Republicans announced this week that Charles St. John, 283 Prospect Avenue, will be one of the candidates and Mary Stewart Allen, 40 Mercer, will be the other. Two weeks ago, Arthur Morgan said he would not run again for his Council seat, and it was announced this week that Thomas Cawley will not run again, either.

Democrats have already announced Murray Medvin and Nelson van den Blink as their Council candidates.

In the Township, Republican officials declined to release candidates' names in advance of the filing deadline this Thursday at 4 p.m. However, any decision by incumbent Barbara Smoyer not to run again would be a surprise. Democrats are running incumbent Margaret Broadwater, and the Rev. Floyd N. Rhodes.

Mr. St. John is chairman of the Borough Zoning Board. He is an engineer with DeLaval, Inc., of Trenton, and has lived in Princeton for 20 years.

Mrs. Allen, a Borough resident for four years, is an organizer of Mercer Hill Associates, a neighborhood organization of residents in the Mercer-Alexander area. She is on the Historic Preservation Committee of the Princeton Historical Society. For several years, she was a political journalist and film-drama critic in Baltimore and was active in politics in that city.

DEMOCRATS READY TO RUN: Borough Council candidates on the Democratic ticket are out and running, although November elections are six months away. Primary Day is June 4, but there are no local contests at the primary level, so far. The candidates are Mrs. Nelson van den Blink and Murray Medvin.

Democrats Medvin and Van den Blink started the campaign off this week with the first statement of the season, announcing that they hope to bring "imagination and compassion to this town's approach to change."

Mr. Medvin, who lives at 27 Leavitt Lane, is corporate vice-president of General Devices, Inc., and general manager of its Princeton-based Telemetry Instrumentation Division. In his business career, he has been involved in marketing, budgeting, contract administration, and governmental procedures. He has lived in Princeton since 1954, and is county committeeman in District 3. He is also on the executive committee of the Princeton Community Democratic Association.

Mrs. van den Blink, 213 Nassau, is also active in Democratic politics in Princeton. She has been county committeewoman in District 2 and is also on the executive committee of the PCDO.

She was named to the Borough Board of Health last year, and is liaison with the Ad Hoc Joint Solid Waste Management Committee. She was elected president of the Board of Health this year. Mrs. van den Blink is a volunteer in the libraries of the Princeton schools.

BIRDS, TREES, GRASS

Troubles in Tigertown. Last week was not a good week for the Princeton University Department of Physical Planning and Facilities.

Problems began when someone discovered a dead pigeon in the vicinity of Palmer Stadium. In this day of increased sensitivity to ecological matters, the University decided to take no chances. It ordered an autopsy.

The report was bad--very bad. The pigeon had been killed by eating poisoned corn. Someone apparently was trying to rid the Stadium area of pesty pigeons. "That course of action was not authorized by this office," said John P. Moran, vice president in charge of physical planning. "But University personnel with good intentions apparently thought that was a good solution."

Poisoned corn is not Mr. Moran's idea of a solution. "It happened, it was stopped, and it ain't gonna happen again," he said. Mr. Moran indicated that at least one pigeon and several grackles were killed by the corn, but that he had not yet received a final death count.

The news of the pigeon's death then spread, and someone else, apparently, wondered if the University's spraying program to ward off the Dutch elm disease might also be harming birds. Mr. Moran took no chances -- he ordered an immediate halt to the tree spraying. The University is retaining a consultant to study the toxic effects of the spray it uses and is referring the matter to the student-faculty committee on

Five Stores in Shopping Center Are Entered; Thief Takes $1100 from McCarter Theatre Safe

Five stores in the Princeton Shopping Center and McCarter Theatre were the target during the past week of thieves who escaped with $1100 from the theatre and about $170 in cash from the shopping center.

The entries at the center were reported at 9:34 Tuesday morning by the manager of the American Sewing Company store next to Center Stationers. Taken from Home Decor were $150 from a cash box and $220 in checks. The East Gate gift shop yielded $20 from a petty cash box.

Also entered were Center Sports and International Arrivals, but police say that owners report that nothing appears to have been taken. The door and frame of the American Sewing Company were damaged but the attempt to enter the store failed.

Police said that in each instance the door facing the mall side had been pried open. Sgt. Michael Kopliner and Ptl. James Vandermark are investigating. No tools were found at the scene, police said.

What Sayest Thou? There was an exchange of notes in the McCarter theft. According to Capt. Theodore Lewis, the thief, after removing $1100 in cash and $33 in checks from a safe in an interior office apparently found a note saying, "Thou Shall Not Steal" that had been left in the safe by employees.

The thief answered: "This is a good commandment but what about, 'thou shall not covet thy neighbor's goods?'" He signed it "Spectre".

Police said they do not know how the thief entered the building, as there were no signs of forced entry anywhere. One room entered was a janitor's room in the cellar, where the intruder forced open a cabinet and took a ring of keys. From another cabinet he took a can of pennies. Using the keys he had found, the thief, police said, entered inner offices throughout the building. The safe was pried open with a long steel bar, Capt. Lewis said.

The theft -- reported early last Wednesday morning -- was investigated by Ptl. Ronald Holliday. The continuing investigation has been assigned to Det. Timothy Quizing.

Other Losses Reported. In other thefts, Barbara Connor of Trenton told police that her white shoulder bag containing $75 was stolen Monday night while she was inside the YMCA building.

Jac Weller of Herrontown Road reported the theft last week of $43 worth of tools from his barn on Snowden Lane. Police said that a screen over a window on the side of the barn had been pried off to get inside.

The theft of $159 in a cash box located in a secretary's desk in the Princeton Arts Medical Building on Witherspoon Street was reported Thursday.

Township police, who said the theft occurred earlier in the month, identified the victims as Dr. David A. Willard and Dr. Leroy Hunninghake.

Plant Thief Strikes Again. Princeton's long-dormant plant thief may have come to life with the spring weather.

Alice Garcia, 30 Park Place, told police Monday that during the night someone stole two hanging begonia baskets from her porch. She valued them at $5 each.

LOMBARDO'S CASE

Plans Public Appearances. Borough Councilman Martin P. Lombardo declined to say, at a Saturday press conference, which individuals and institution have asked for Borough zoning changes that would benefit them. Mr. Lombardo had raised this charge two weeks ago against Borough Zoning Board and Regional Planning Board. Names will come out as public discussion proceeds, he promised.

Mr. Lombardo held his conference at the unfinished office building on the Markham-Nassau corner started by Timothy Sheehan, who is currently in litigation with the Borough. It symbolized, he said, his attack on Borough zoning policies. The Councilman said future press conferences will be held at other sites affected by borough zoning, but he refused to say where, ahead of time. At these conferences, he said he will discuss suits other than Mr. Sheehan's, but he wouldn't say which ones.

Funds to Be Sought. He will speak, he said, at the April 23 and 30 public CBD meetings, the May 1 special Council meeting on Spring Street zoning and the May 14 Council meeting on "major questions that should be investigated." He asked formation of a fund to finance an investigation of Zoning and Planning Boards.

Asked whether he would try to keep the Planning Board from passing the CBD plan at its May 7 meeting, he declined to say. He also refused to say whether he would take groups of supporters to the meetings and he would not say whether other Council members supported him.

Many other people in the community support him, Mr. Lombardo said, and he named "the Kahns" (Benjamin Kahn and his son, Albert, owners and managers of many rental properties), and Mr. Sheehan. The latter has supplied him with facts on his suit, Mr. Lombardo said. Others have promised him information too, he said, but he declined to identify them, preferring to keep their confidence, he told reporters.

"My statement dealt with issues, not personalities," he declared. "I have not questioned any individual's integrity. This is not a vindictive vendetta. I am sad that I have to go this route. I have personal friends on these boards."

Asked why he raised no questions on the Spring Street ordinance, he explained he had suffered a 5-1 defeat in council that night on another matter, but said he did feel the ordinance was questionable, and so he abstained in the vote.

Apology Asked. "I was not involved in any of the discussions on the Spring Street ordinance," he said, adding that he was absent when the measure was introduced.

He declared Councilman Robert Powell owed him an apology. Mr. Powell had said Mr. Lombardo voted "yes" on Spring zoning.

Planning and Zoning Boards met privately Easter Sunday, Mr. Lombardo charged, in an effort "to obstruct an investigation." The Councilman added he was told that last week's statement by Mayor Robert W. Cawley replying to his charges was not the statement agreed on at the Easter Planning Board meeting.

At the press conference, Mr. Lombardo suggested commercial variances granted over the past few years, should be investigated. He declined to specify which variances, and asked reporters to check the records.

In a prepared statement, he asked why planning consultant Richard May "was receiving test-borings for Palmer Square, Inc. while retained as consultant."

(Fred M. Blaicher, PSI president, says the firm retained architects Ewing, Cole, Erdman and Eubank who in turn retained Raymond International, Inc., to make test-borings around the Playhouse in 1969. After Mr. May became consultant, William H. Walker of the Planning Board asked the architects' firm to forward a copy of the test-boring report to Mr. May as aid in land-use studies.

Mr. Walker gave a copy to Borough Engineer Donald Harney because his office didn't have one. Mr. May's name appears on the letter of transmittal to Mr. Walker, Mr. Harney said, explaining that "By R. May" on the letter refers to "transmittal" by R. May, not "test-boring by R. May.") Cleared by Investigation. Mr. Lombardo cited the association of Planners, Inc. (Mr. May's firm) with Matz-Childs, linked to Spiro Agnew's kickback problems. (Investigation by William Miller, Planning Board attorney, satisfied the board Mr. May was in the clear. (See TOWN TOPICS, November 22, 1973).

Conflict of interest charges were also raised, Mr. Lombardo citing Mr. Walker and his former partner, Hans K. Sander, as both being on the Planning Board. Mr. Lombardo also declared neither architects nor elected officials should serve on the Planning Board.

The Borough could be liable for $5 million, if Mr. Sheehan wins, his suit. Mr. Lombardo said. (No sum of money is mentioned in Mr. Sheehan's suit, in accordance with New Jersey practice. Under demand by Borough lawyers, he did name the $5 million figure.

Mr. Sheehan filed suit in September, 1971, against 14 named defendants—elected officials and Borough staff—charging he was singled out and discriminated against. A 1968 zoning amendment relating to office buildings in the "Jugtown" area was aimed at depriving him of his Markham Road building, he said. A "stop-order," which he later got the court to lift, and a summons and fine for blocking construction at the site are also part of his complaint that Borough officials acted maliciously against him.

The case may come to trial this fall.

April's been that way, all right: the average precipitation for the month had fallen before it was two-thirds gone. Odds are there'll be more before May arrives next Wednesday.

Cold though it was for the first two weeks, April has brought temperatures running well above normal on balance. That trend, too, is expected to continue for the rest of the month.

environment, headed by Professor Thomas C. Southerland.

Hydroseed. Mr. Moran pointed out that the University once used DDT in its battle gainst the killer elm bark beetle, spreader of the Dutch elm disease, but that it switched as soon as the dangerous effects of DDT were made known. The same caution would govern the use of the current pesticide, he indicated.

Last week also was the week the Department of Physical Planning and Facilities decided to embark on an innovative new program of grass-seeding. The procedure called for the spraying of a moist mixture of wood pulp, grass seed and dye across the barren patches of lawm.

Called Hydroseed, the mixture was conceived for use along highways, and other large areas that need a quick cover of grass. The die tells the sprayer working at a distance what parts he has covered. "It's great for getting a rapid development of grass," said Mr. Moran.

The problem was the dye. Some called it green, others thought it was blue. In either case, Mr. Moran said, "it was obviously inappropriate for a college campus." The Hydroseed spraying stopped last Mooday, after just one day. Next year Mr. Moran hopes the University can purchase the same mixture, without the artificial coloring.

Impeachment Rally Set

The Princeton Chapter of the Attica Brigade is arranging bus transportation to Washington Saturday for the march and rally supporting impeachment proceedings against President Nixon. The buses will leave the Princeton Inn College on Alexander Street at 6:30 and return at about 10 Saturday night. The cost is $6 and reservations may be made by calling 921-7650.

The Attica Brigade, the Ad Hoc Committee to Impeach the President and other campus and community organizations also scheduled an anti-Nixon rally this Wednesday night at 9:30 at Blair Arch on the University campus.

PRINCIPAL?

Board May Decide Soon. A principal for the Middle School may be named at the Princeton Regional Board of Education meeting next Tuesday (8 p.m., Community Park), but it depends on the outcome of discussions to be held in executive session this Tuesday by the board, President Winthrop Pike said this week, at a school board press conference.

Over 200 applications were received for the job. About a dozen have been considered, some of whom are currently in the Princeton school system, Mr. Pike said.

A computer compromise will be voted on by the board. Superintendent Philip E. McPherson will recommend that the school keep the controversial IBM 1130 for another academic year, adding to it Remote Job Entry at a cost of $229 per month.

Dr. McPherson explained that the compromise is an effort to accommodate the views of the Princeton High School staff on use of the computer, and the view of citizen advisers who velieve an outside link crucial to loogrange development. Mr. Pike said the program will be reviewed carefully during the 1974-75 year.

The board will vote on a 1974-75 calendar providing a spring recess from April 7-11, a mid-June closing, and a recess on Wednesday, January 15, for Martin Luther King Day.

SUSSMAN WON'T RUN

Cites Hatch Act. Oscar Sussman has decided not to enter the 5th Congressional District race. The State Director of Consumer Health Services, a veterinarian who lives on Route 206, announced this week that 268 people had responded to his questionnaire asking whether he ought to run or not.

An important factor in his decision not to, Dr. Sussman said, was the Hatch Act. Under its provisions, he would have had to resign as consumer affairs director. This was too great a risk, he said, and "would leave me frustrated in my campaign for more Open Government."

The act, he charged, "works to the detriment of Civil Service employees who wish to take a leave of absence and run for elective office." He said he has retained attorneys to investigate the constitutionality of the act.

Of the 268 people who returned his questionnaire, Dr. Sussman said that 201 thought he should run as an independent; 51 as a Democrat, 1 as a Republican and 15 "unimportant: just run."

Replying to the question about problems, 146 said inflation was the chief problem, 101 said governmental corruption and inefficiency were the main problems, and of the 146 who voted for inflation, 124 said the next greatest concern was corruption. "Thus 235 persons said corruption was either first or second as a major problem," Dr. Sussman observed.

"No one tried to buy my vote," Dr. Sussman continued. "Offers and checks I did receive—all of which have been voided—ran from $3 to $50; 102 people offered money, totalling $1,522."

Respondents suggested all contributions should be from persons, not organizations, and should be limited to $200 per person, $400 per family unit. All respondents, he reported, believed less money should be spent on all campaigns.

Last Friday, Dr. Sussman threw his support to Gertrude Dubrovsky, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the 5th District seat.

Dr. Sussman signed Ms. Dubrovsky's petition and, with his wife, offered support.

GIRL HIT BY CAR

Suffers Concussion. Elizabeth A. Carmody, 14, Hiland Drive, Belle Mead, was admitted to Princeton Medical Center Saturday afternoon for treatment of a cerebral concussion which she received when she was struck by a car on Princeton-Kingston Road some 400 feet from the intersection of Shady Brook Lane.

There were no charges against the driver, Jack Spector, 42, of Columbia, Md.

According to Township police, a crew race was in progress on nearby Carnegie Lake and cars were lined on both sides of Kingston Road, creating a traffic hazard. There was no traffic control officer.

Mr. Spector told police that the girl suddenly ran into the path of his car. A witness, Allegra Smith, 15, told police that she had been playing with Elizabeth, saw the car, and cried out to her as she ran into its path.

Elizabeth told police later that she never saw the car and had no recollection of the accident. Ptl. David Cromwell investigated.

DEMOCRATS ENDORSE 3 For West Windsor Posts. The Board of Health Chairman, the West Windsor Community Association president, and a former candidate for Tax Collector were the three candidates endorsed last Monday by the West Windsor Democratic Club to seek office in this year's municipal elections.

Chosen to run for Township Committee were Grace L. Singer of 6 Springwood Drive, Princeton Junction, and Allen T. McQuarrie of 5 Ziff Lane, Colonial Park. Candidate for Township Clerk is Anita P. Mount of Old Trenton Road, Edinburg. She seeks the post long held by Louis B. Chamberlin, who will reture this year after 38 years of West Windsor service.

"As chairman of the Board of Health, Mrs. Singer represents vigorous leadership in developing and enforcing standards demanded by a rapidly growing community," said West Windsor Democratic Club President William Burke.

Mrs. Singer has been a member of the West Windsor Board of Health since 1970 and has also served on the Township's Site Review Committee, as well as on advisory committees for the Planning Board and Environmental Commission.

A president of the West Windsor League of Women Voters in 1968, Mrs. Singer now serves as a Legislative Agent for the N.J. LWV at the State House. She is chairman of the Environmental Health Committee of the Delaware-Raritan Lung Association and serves on its Board of Directors. She is a trustee of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association.

Mr. McQuarrie is a leadership development consultant for the New Jersey Education Association in Trenton. As a director of the West Windsor Community Association, he organized and led the forum on the Mercer County Master Plan and is now on the Citizens' Advisory Committee for the Municipal Master Plan. He was elected president of the West Windsor Community Association this January.

Grace L. Singer

Allen T. McQuarrie

Anita P. Mount

Mrs. Mount is currently secretary-receptionist in the West Windsor municipal offices. She is an experienced office administrator, who served as executive secretary in 1959 for the State of New Jersey for President Eisenhower's White House Conference on Aging. She has also worked for the State Division of Employment Security and as secretary for the Director of Alumni Affairs at Rider College.

SCHOOL, CAR TARGET Of Vandals. Chief Frederick Porter reported several acts of malicious mischief last week in the Township.

Seven windows were shot out at Community Park School, apparently with an air rifle. Total damage: $185.

An axe was used to break a window and cut the rear seat of a car parked in the drive of 281 Jefferson Road and owned by Marie DeMauro, 630 Prospect Avenue. Police recovered the axe about 20 feet from the car.

Eva M. Astbury of Titusville told police that a rock shattered the windshield of her car while she was driving on Rosedale Road near Galbreath late Saturday night. She told Sgt. David Potts, who investigated, that there was no one else in the area at the time.

Nadim G. Khalaf, 5K Hibben Apartments, listed the theft of the windshield and spare tire of his foreign car while it was parked in the Hibben north lot. A vent window had been pried open, police said. Mr. Khalaf put his loss at $69.45.

Another attempt to remove a windshield failed but it was cracked in the process, police said. The molding was removed from the windshield of a car owned by Robert Cignoli, 7C Magie Apartments, while it was parked in a Magie lot, causing $75 damage.

In a theft from a small foreign car parked behind Dial Lodge, Prospect Avenue, owner David Goldsmith, 311 Cuyler Hall, told police he lost an 8-track stereo player, two speakers and 28 tapes in two cases with a combined value of $350. A vent window had been broken, police said.

MORE BOOKS THAN EVER At Bryn Mawr Sale. With book donations reported to be running "far ahead" of previous years, members of the Princeton Bryn Mawr Club have begun to move books to the Borough Hall Gymnasium for sorting and pricing.

The sale begins with Children's Night Tuesday from 6 to 8. Adults can begin browsing Wednesday, May 1, from noon to 9, Thursday and Friday from 9 to 9, and Saturday from 9 to noon. Friday will be half-price day for most books. On Saturday all the books you can carry will cost $1.

Mrs. J. Thomas James, director of the 1974 sale, reports that many more encyclopedias, art books and children's books will be available this year. "The Princeton community has been unusually generous in their donations to the Bryn Mawr Club's scholarship benefit," she said.

DYSTROPHY BENEFIT SET This Saturday. An outdoor carnival will be held this Saturday starting at 10 at 45 Monroe Road to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Fund. Games, prizes and refreshments will be featured.

The event is being coordinated by Julie Lewin and Sara Hommel, co-chairmen.

LOSES LICENSE

For Drunk Driving. Timothy Schneeweiss, 20, 31 Carnegie Drive, was fined $210 and lost his license for two years when he pleaded guilty in Borough Court Monday to drunken driving. He pleaded not guilty to a second charge of careless driving which was dismissed by Judge Philip Carchman.

Mark Dalton, 19, 16 Colonial Avenue, Princeton Junction, was fined $40 for speeding. Two other speeders, Abigail Harris, 24, of Rider College, and Margaret Payne, 28, 13 Center Street, Hopewell, were fined $20 each.

John Bushnell, 19, Elm Road, paid $30 for failing to keep right; Alice Y. Carter, 21, 280 Russell Road, $20 for careless driving; and John Kemp, 32 Jefferson Road, $10, no name on commercial vehicle.

John B. Barnes Jr., 311 1940 Hall, Princeton University, in court to answer charges of no license in possession and a U-turn violation, was arrested by police who had a warrant charging him with failing to pay 16 parking summonses. He was later released on $100 bail, pending an appearance in court. His former charges will be continued at the May 29 session of traffic court.

In Township court last week, Judge Carchman fined Michael D. Servis, 20, 173 Valley Road, $40 for tampering with a motor vehicle (siphoning gas); James M. Murray, 19, Cherry Valley Road, $35 for speeding 70 in a 45-mile zone; and Oscar T. Sussman, 20, Route 518, Skillman, $20 for a stop-sign violation.

In criminal court, Richard W. Hall, Long Branch; Gloria P. Merrill, 148 Witherspoon Street; and Queen E. Leach, 184 Witherspoon, were all referred to a Grand Jury after each had pleaded not guilty to robbery.

Miss Leach pleaded guilty to a second charge of assault. She was fined $35 and placed on six months probation.

TURNTABLE STOLEN

From Witherspoon St. Home. A stereo turntable valued at $170 and a $125 35mm camera were stolen last week from the home of Truett Bush, 293 Witherspoon Street.

Police said that a window pane in the front door had been broken, enabling the intruder to unlock the door. Ptl. David Funk investigated.

JR. MARKSMEN HONORED

By National Rifle Association. Winners of the Princeton Junior Rifle Club received their awards in ceremonies concluding the 15-week winter program at the Citizen's Rifle and Revolver Club in West Windsor. Sponsored by Princeton Borough and Township and West Windsor Township Police Benevolent Association Local 130, the National Rifle Association course awards and certificates went to most of the 89 members ranging in age from 10 to 18 who participated in the final matches.

First Place Trophy Winners in the NRA National "Postals," in which members compete against other clubs throughout the country by mailing their scores to Washington for official grading, were Don D'Angelis of Robbinsville in the High-Junior category and Debbie Dierdorff of Princeton in the Sub-Junior group. Awards in the Director Civilian Marksmanship category were Craig Prekop of Mercerville, Junior Grand Aggregate Winner, and Isabel Chenoweth of Princeton, Sub-Junior Grand Aggregate Winner.

Second Place Winners in the NRA Postals were Steve Holtzclaw, High-Junior, and Rick Steiner, Sub-Junior. The Sub-Juniors of the Princeton Junior Rifle Club placed 10th nationally, while the Juniors placed 25th.

The citizen's Rifle and Revolver Club provides instructors, targets, rifles and ammunition for the course. PBA also provides financial support and a number of the awards and trophies that are won by the youngsters. Lieutenant Richard V. Steiner of the Princeton Township Police Department, the chief instructor, was assisted by Nancy Rosenthal of Princeton.

LET'S MISBEHAVE!

At Princeton High. The staff of Princeton High School will sponsor an evening of music and dancing for the entire Princeton adult community Friday, May 3, beginning at 9 in the Boys' Gym. Entitled "Let's Misbehave," the party will feature music by Jack Horner and the P.H.S. Dance Band and an intermission band.

The community also is invited to view the first renderings of the P.H.S. renovations. Architects will be in the Girls' Gym to explain the plans. Tickets for the evening are available at all Princeton Regional Schools. Admission is $2.50 apiece.

PETITION DRIVE BEGUN

For Campaign Reform. The Princeton Area League of Women Voters is participating with more than 1,300 local and state chapters throughout the country in a petition drive to support comprehensive campaign financing reform. The goal of the Princeton drive is 2,500 signatures.

Signatures are being gathered through Monday by League members in their neighborhoods; on Friday and Saturday on Nassau Street; and at the Whig Clip lecture this Thursday. On May 6 the signatures from each state will be totaled at the League's national convention in San Francisco. The petitions will then be forwarded to House members.

Said Mrs. Elaine Bezilla, president of the Princeton Area League: "The people want tough and far reaching legislation such as S3044 which was passed by the Senate last week. But they may not get it unless there is a genuine outpouring of grassroots opinion to counter stalling tactics and strategies already underway in Congress."

BAD DAY IN TOWNSHIP

For Mini Bike Rider. A 14-year old Borough mini-bike rider suffered a bad day earlier this month in the Township.

After a chase by Ptl. Robert Nielsen, he was charged with operating an unregistered vehicle, driving without a license and attempting to elude a police officer. His mini-bike was towed to a gas station on Route 206 and police said that the youth's parents will have to pay the charges.

He also faces further action by the Township Juvenile Officer.

Police said that Ptl. Nielsen, traveling in the opposite direction on Cherry Hill Road, motioned for the young minibike operator to stop. Instead, he continued on and Ptl. Nielsen gave chase for more than half a mile in a speed in excess of 50 miles an hour. Police said the youth finally slowed and pulled his minibike to a stop in a dirt section off Stuart Road.

CANDIDATES ANNOUNCE

In West Windsor. Richard Walter, incumbent Township Committeeman, and William L.J. Royal have announced their candidacy on the Republican ticket for Township Committee in West Windsor.

In a joint statement, the candidates said, "We realize that the election this year is a critical one for the Township and for the Republican Party. Two seats are open in November. To keep two party government in West Windsor, we intend to take both of these seats. The present Democratic administration now has a majority of three votes; and while these two seats will not change that, they must remain in Republican control to provide some check for the people."

Mr. Walter was elected to the Township Committee in 1971. His present responsibilities include the Board of Health, Buildings and Grounds, Roads, Landfill and Recycling. He is also Committeeman Member to the Planning Board, and was instrumental in instituting the building moratorium in 1972. He served as Deputy Mayor in 1972-73. As a graduate of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, he operates his own pharmacy in Allentown.

Mr. Royal is a graduate of the University of Virginia, where he majored in political science. At the present time, he is an Assistant Vice-President of Alexander and Alexander, the international insurance brokers. His offices are in Princeton and Philadelphia.

He has served as a member of the West Windsor Advisory Committee to the Planning Board. He served as Republican Municipal Chairman for five years and is currently Republican Committeeman in District One of West Windsor.

Republican Committeeman Stephen Guzy, who was elected with Mr. Walter in 1971, will not seek re-election this year.

The Rising Generation

ISSUES....AND "ANSWERS"?

Excerpts from a sermon delivered March 10 at Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Floyd N. Rhodes.

There are many challenges in ordinary life which break through all our shams and pretenses and serve as revealers of truth. The Apostle Paul, writing to his disciple Timothy, emphasizes the truth that the appearance or the threat of a crisis brings out into the open the strength or the evil that in calmer, quieter times may be hidden beneath the surface of human lives.

Kidnap victim Patricia Hearst and the national publicity given the deed, bring home this point. But we can ask, what crisis or threat of crisis—real or imagined, caused the Symbionese Liberation Army to use a live body to gain an end or to obtain a goal?

Why do people in Oakland and the Bay area of San Francisco accept food obtained by coercion from the Hearst family via the threat of the death of their daughter, if they fail to comply with the demands of the SLA?

Some of us would say that the history of the world, and especially that of America, is replete with instances of live bodies being used to obtain ends and goals. For millions of people in this country of ours have been kidnapped and are being held hostage in ghettoes, in neighborhoods that are stagnant, immobile and which are sociological and psychological prisons that trap their inhabitants in confined areas designed by the power structures to keep them excluded and secluded; they are kidnapped and held hostage as prisoners in sub-standard housing that is fit only for rats, and rats do live there; they are kidnapped and held hostage in menial, low-paying jobs that do not even begin to provide a person, much yet a family, a decent standard of living; our children are kidnapped and held hostage in schools where no learning takes place and where teachers treat children as if they were the enemy.

As we view the life of Our Lord and consider the things He stood for, we can ask: "Why did He have to die; why was He made an example for his followers; why was His life used and taken by the powers that be? What ends and goals did they hope to reach and maintain by hanging our Lord's body on Calvary? After all, He was feeding the poor, He was bringing good news to all, He was healing and teaching."

We all abhor the tactics of the Symbionese Liberation Army; we pray and we hope that Patricia Hearst will be released unharmed; we deplore the fact that she has had to endure this ordeal.

But if the members of the SLA have perceived or imagined a crisis in that Bay area community, which has evoked from them this harsh action, then it is for us, the Christian community, the Church, to try to determine what the real issues are that brought on this crisis, and to provide answers, if any are forthcoming, on how to deal with this crisis.

We are now at the level of mankind where the material and the spiritual have become polarized. Our culture has become so materialistic that it must be re-interpreted in terms of regard and respect for spiritual and moral forces; in terms of how this society and its structures can best serve us all. This is an answer the Church, the religious community, can help to provide.

The structures that comprise our society must be re-oriented in terms of societal needs. It is time we re-direct these same material values to the rediscovery of the moral and intellectual, of the spiritual.

A voice somewhere ought to cry out—the voice of discernment of the religious community, a voice recognizing the injustices and cruelties to which many people in this land are subject. The underprivileged, the humble, the outcast, the hungry, the sick, the unemployed, the underemployed, the victims of war, the victims of technocracy, and the victims of age are all isolated in this world of unbroken silence with no one caring that all people are human, and that all of us are God's children, and that there is a quality of life that belongs to us all, regardless of who we are, where we are, what we are.

No problem on the face of contemporary American society is more important or critical than that which has to do with the efforts of minority nation, so, as a democracy (blase, conservative, freedom, equality and justice without further delay, to become a person in a community, to become a human being—with equal opportunity and equal rights, securing bread of life, not stones, securing the real thing and not tokenism. To offer anything other than the full benefits of a full life is substitution. But this is the name of the game. This is the way of life today.

As a nation, we have resolved to go halfway with responsibility to the needy, to the poor and to the destitute, recognizing the problems around the world's hunger. Surplus commodities, money, guns, airplanes, technicians and advisors—all are "stones." And even while we were providing these goods and services to some nations, we have allowed over a million people in Black Africa to starve to death. "Stones" will not work. As a nation, so, as a democracy (Blase, conservative, ignoring) we go on, supposedly involved, but with unconvincing responsibility to the needs for human decency.

This land of equal opportunity cannot continue to deny opportunity because of color; nor full democratic power to the deprived and the powerless because this reduces the power base to only a few people. Nor can this land, able to raise sufficient food to feed the world, permit hunger in our midst, only because the elimination of hunger would dislocate the private standard of living for some. No one has the right to anything, at the cost of quality to anyone else.

We are under the judgment of our wanton temptation to greed, to power, to affluence, to status and to race. The answer is for us to reconcile these temptations with the needs of all people.

To this, the Church must speak. The Symbionese Liberation Army, with this vile and heinous act which all deplore, is trying to call attention, to focus the spotlight on the crises that confront our nation. Even though they believe in what they are doing, and, possibly, in the way it is being done, they are still being given, and are accepting, only "stones."

The Symbionese Liberation Army and all of us, need to be aware of the fact that God's will is concerned with all of us, and that we must obey God or betray Him, when we finally see in Jesus Christ the manifestation of the truth for which every person is called to live, and when we learn that all our lives have implications in the eternal purpose of God which sets everything in a new perspective.

ERRORS PLAGUE PDS 9

Panthers Lose Three. Coach Tom DeVito expected that his young Princeton Day School baseball team would have defensive problems this year. But he anticipated pitching problems, not fielding errors. In the Panthers' first three games pitching has been a pleasant surprise. Fielding has been miserable.

"The pitchers are throwing strikes," said DeVito after Monday's 10-2 loss at Lawrenceville. "But we're just not doing the job in the field. Maybe it's in our heads now, but we've got to cut down on the mistakes if we want to break even by the end of this week."

PDS plays Wednesday at home against Bryn Athyn; Friday at the George School; and Saturday at home against Montclair. "We need to build up some confidence and momentum," said DeVito, whose team lost both games last week, 3-2 at the Germantown Friends Academy, and 10-5 against Pennington School.

Starting pitcher Glenn Russo threw capably against Lawrenceville, but he was in hot water from the start beccause of fielding problems. Two errors in the first gave the Larries a 2-0 lead. The Panthers tied the game in the second inning. Russo and Teddy Brown drew walks, and then scored after singles by Nick Brady and Bill Baggitt and a throwing error.

In the bottom of the fourth, however, Lawrenceville scored three runs, helped along by one Panther error. The next inning the Larries put the game out of reach, with five runs. This time PDS committed two errors, and Russo gave up a single, triple and two sacrifice flies. Lawrenceville outhit PDS, 8-6, but the losers made six errors.

The two games last week were exercises in frustration for PDS. In the Panthers' first game of the season, against Germantown Friends, Glenn Russo came within one out of pitching a fine 2-1 victory. But with two outs in the bottom of seventh inning, and a Friends runner at third, a slow ground ball trickled through the right side of the PDS infield for a scratch base hit and a tie game.

In the top of the eighth, DeVito's team threatened, loading the bases with just one out. The next two hitters watched five strikes go by, however, and Germantown was out of the inning. "That was typical," said DeVito. "We hit the ball real well with no one on base." The Panthers stranded 12 runners.

Germantown scored the winning run as a result of PDS's only error of the game, a bad hop mishandled by Frank Konstantynowicz at shortstop. Russo finished the game with seven strikeouts and only one walk.

The defense collapsed completely against the Pennington school. "We had nine errors," moaned DeVito. "They only had six hits. That game should have been something like 3-1 or 2-0. Not 10-5."

Terry Ward, Princeton Day's starter, saw little support in the field. "They get four runs in the second," DeVito said by way of illustration. "Error, shortstop. Passed ball. Error, second base. Error, right field. Error, shortstop. Base hit. Fly out to end the inning."

DeVito could not even find consolation in his own team's five runs. All were scored in the last inning, with a wild pitch and a hit batsman contributing.

Softball Meeting Thursday

An organizational meeting of the Adult Softball League, sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department, will be held Thursday night at 8 in Room 211 of the Valley Road School building.

Those interested in participating are invited to attend. Additional information from the Recreation Office, 921-9480.

PHS TOPS NOTRE DAME

But Loses to Bridgewater. After the Bridgewater-Raritan meet last week, which the Princeton High School track team lost, 70-61, for its first dual meet setback, PHS coach Marc Anderson reported that he was concerned about how the team would do Monday against Notre Dame.

He needn't have been. PHS again dominated the racing events to defeat the visiting frish, 77-54. "The guys really came through," said Anderson.

Next Wednesday, PHS will be at Trenton. The Tornadoes also defeated Notre Dame and have some fine runners of their own. "This one will go right down to the wire," Anderson predicted.

Against Notre Dame (2-4) Royce Flippin won the two-mile in 9:58—the first to break the ten-minute barrier in the county this year. "He's only a sophomore and loaded with talent," commented Anderson. Pete Nichols of PHS was second.

PHS swept the mile, Tim Anderson winning with a 4:44.4 effort, followed by Morgan Snyder and Mike Clohossey. Fred Berkelhammer and Mark McLean each jumped 5-8 and Eric Ziolkowsky leaped 5-4 to give PHS a sweep in the high jump.

McLean also won the pole vault with a 12-6 mark and the 330 intermediate hurdles. Freddie Wilson won the 440 (50.5) and placed second in the 100. Senior Paul Campbell recorded his first victory in the high hurdles (followed by the ever present McLean) and sophomore Tom Bart placed second in both the shot and discuss. His shot mark of 43-4¾ was his best of the season.

Bridgewater swept the shot and discuss and won the mile relay to pile up points in its win over PHS.

Anderson led Flippin and Nichols in a PHS sweep of the two-mile, coming within a whisker of breaking 10-minutes with a 10:00.5 clocking. Wilson won the 440 and 100, Woodside the mile.

McLean was a triple winner, capturing the vault, 330 intermediate and 120-yard high hurdles. He and Wilson are waging a battle for top scoring honors on the team.

PRINCETONIAN NAMED

As Athlete-of-the-Week. Outstanding javelin performances with the Princeton track team won recognition for Steve Franks as one of three Princeton "Athletes-of-the-Week."

Franks, a Princeton High School graduate and a member of the Class of 1977, threw the javelin 207 feet, 5½ inches against Harvard and 216 feet, 3½ inches against Columbia, winning first places in both meets. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril M. Franks, 315 Prospect Avenue.

Legion Tryouts Set

Tryouts for Princeton American Legion Post 76 baseball will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 4-5, at the Princeton High School field, starting at 1:30 both days. Applicants must be born on or after August 1, 1955, and live in Princeton or the surrounding area.

TWO 5-0 SWEEPS

For PHS Netmen. Princeton High School's tennis team defeated Lawrence, 5-0, Monday on the losers' home courts and last week wiped out visiting Notre Dame by the same score.

Against Lawrence, freshman Andre Eichenberger won the number one singles, 6-1, 6-0. Dan Aronovic and Dan Schulman won, 6-2, 6-3 and 6-2, 6-2.

Obituaries

Sir Hugh Taylor, the former Dean of the Princeton University Graduate School whose work in catalysis as a physical chemist won him international recognition, died April 17 at the Merwick Unit of the Princeton Medical Center. He was 84 years of age, and lived at 191 Library Place.

When Dr. Taylor retired from the Princeton faculty in 1958, after 44 years as a teacher and administrator, he continued to play a key role in American graduate education as the first president of The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, the independent, Princeton-based foundation dedicated to the support of quality, primarily in higher education.

A native of England, Sir Hugh was knighted by both Queen Elizabeth and Pope Pius XIf in 1953. He came to Princeton in 1914 after graduating from the University of Liverpool (where he received his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in science). With the exception of a two-year interlude in Britain during World War 1 with the British Munitions Inventions Department, he spent the rest of his life concerned with science and education in the U.S.

He rose swiftly through Princeton faculty ranks, becoming a full professor at age 32, and the first incumbent of the David B. Jones Professorship of Chemistry in 1927. He served as chairman of the Department of Chemistry from 1926 until 1951 and Dean of the Graduate School from 1945 until his retirement in 1958.

Twice a Knight Commander.As one of the Britons on Queen Elizabeth's Coronation Honors List, he became a Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire. Also in May, 1953, his services as president of Pax Romana, the international Roman Catholic movement for intellectual and cultural affairs, were recognized by Pope Pius XIf who created him Knight Commander of the Papal Order of St. Gregory the Great.

He was co-author (with Sir Eric Rideal) of the first significant book on the subject of catalysis, "Catalysis in Theory and Practice." During

by Mel Atlas, Reg. Pharm

Do you sometimes need to fall asleep? Many people recommend tea, or camomile or herb tea, brewed mildly an hour or so before bedtime. Warmed orange juice or milk are often good too. Read something unexciting, mildly interesting or amusing. Get ready for bed in an unhurried way by making your bathwater tepid for relaxation. Adjust windows for fresh air. Get a glass of water for your nighttable. Stretch every muscle you can think of, and relax slowly. There. Aren't you sleepy just thinking about it?

Time passes very slowly when you are a convalescent...THE FORER PHARMACY, 160 Witherspoon has all the supplies necessary to keep that special someone comfortable. Wheel chairs, walkers, canes, crutches and portable commodes are all available. Phone 921-7287.

World War II, he played a prominent role in American science in the war effort and in the direction of research projects. Among his contributions to the development of the atomic bomb was the discovery of the most effective catalyst for producing heavy water from the interaction of hydrogen and steam.

In his 13 years as Dean of the Graduate School, that institution almost trebled its enrollment – from 250 before World War II to approximately 700 when he retired in 1958 (enrollment today is just under 1500). During his tenure Ph.D. programs were extended into a number of new fields, notably in the engineering sciences, and the Master in Public Affairs program of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs was established.

Consultant on a Novel. A prolific writer in his field, and one-time editor-in-chief of the "American Scientist," Dr. Taylor also helped produce a work of fiction once, when the late S.S. Van Dine consulted him in writing a Philo Vance mystery in which "heavy water" played a part.

Lady Taylor, the former Elizabeth Agnes Sawyer, whom Dean Taylor married in Princeton in 1919, died in 1958. He is survived by a brother, H. Austin Taylor of Hartsdale, N.Y., Professor of Chemistry, Emeritus at New York University; three sisters, Miss Helen Taylor and Mrs. Theresa McDermott, both of whom live in the town of Sir Hugh's birth, St. Helens in Lancashire, England, and Sister Mery of the Apostles, S.N.D., Liverpool; two daughters, Mrs. Taylor Ashley of San Francisco, and Mrs. Maurice F. Healy, Jr. of Princeton, and six grandchildren.

A private service was held, with interment in St. Paul's Catholic cemetery.

A memorial service was held in the Princeton University Chapel at 3 on Wednesday, April 24. Contributions may be made to the Sir Hugh and Lady Taylor Fund at Princeton University.

Mrs. Rachel Young Lutz, 91, of 56 Battle Road, died April 21 in the Princeton Medical Center. She was a member of the Present Day Club, the Women's College Club of Princeton and the Hospital Aid Committee.

Born in Salem, Ohio, she had been a resident of Princeton since 1928. She was a graduate of Oberlin College in Ohio, Class of 1906.

Surviving are her husband, Dr. Harley L. Lutz; one son, Robert G. of Princeton; two daughters, Mrs. Warren K. Page of New Canaan, Conn., and Mrs. Edmon L. Rinehart of Montgomery, Alabama; six grandchildren; and one great-granddaughter.

Private services and interment will be held in Salem. Contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad or to the Princeton Chepter of the American Red Cross. Arrangements were made by the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Ruth V. Riggs, 76, formerly of 229 Mount Lucas Road, died April 18 at her home, 222 East Indianola Avenue, Phoenix, Arizona.

Born in Hopewell, she was a Princeton resident for 50 years before moving to Arizona in 1965. She was a member of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church and the American Legion Post No. 76. She was the widow of Walter M. Riggs.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Catherine L. Clark; two sons, William M. Riggs and Edward W. Errickson, all of Phoenix; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Dye of Titusville and Mrs. Eleanor Voorhees of Hopewell; six grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

Graveside services were held at the Highland Cemetery, Hopewell. Arrangements were made by Kimble Funeral Home.

News Of The CHURCHES

ABERNATHY TO SPEAK

At Chapel Conference. The Princeton Theological Seminary, in conjunction with the Office of the Dean of the University Chapel, is sponsoring a conference entitled "Magnanimity in Public and Community Life" Saturday and Sunday, April 27 and 28. Several prominent religious and civic leaders, including the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, will attend.

The conference was initiated in response to what the organizers call the "crisis in confidence" and the "decline of moral commitment" within America. According to the planners, "the conference intends to address the issue of morality as an active expression of the Christian faith and to explore the possibilities that are at hand for spiritual renewal."

The program will begin Saturday at 10:30, with an address by James Lawson, a man described by the late Martin Luther King as "the leading nonviolent theorist and strategist in the world." He is currently pastor of the Centenary United Methodist Church of Memphis, Tennessee. A response will follow at 11:30 by Professor Charles West of the Theological Seminary.

At 2 Saturday the conference will hear William Stringfellow, a social critic, lawyer, theologian and author of "An Ethic for Christians and Other Aliens in a Strange Land." He also defended the late Bishop James Pike against heresy charges. Ernest Gordon, Dean of the Chapel, will respond at 3.

At 4, following the performance of the Fairleigh Dickinson Religious Dancers, the following workshops will be held: "Politics of Revitalization," led by Anne C. Martindell; "Amnesty – A Christian Perspective," Professor West; "The Christian Woman in the Feminist Movement," Janet Penfield; and "Quo Vadis Discipulus," James T. C. Liu.

The conference will conclude Sunday at 11 as the regular worship service in the University Chapel, with the sermon being delivered by the Rev. Abernathy. All meetings and workshops will be held in the Chapel.

PRINCETONIAN ATTENDS

Baha'i Convention. William R. Foster, of 168 South Harrison Street, travels to Wilmette, Illinois, this Thursday to represent Princeton and New Jersey at the 65th annual National Baha'i Convention. He is among 176 delegates from around the country who will elect the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United States.

The National Spiritual Assembly administers the affairs of more than 5,000 Baha'i communities in the United States. The convention this weekend will also present a new international teaching and consolidation plan to the delegates. This plan will cover five years and will be the fourth such expansion program undertaken by the Baha'is since World War II.

In the 10-year period ending in 1973, the Baha'i faith grew more than six-fold in the United States. In Princeton the Baha'i community numbers about 10. "Firesides," informal meetings at which Baha'is talk to others about their faith, are held each Saturday night at 8 in Murray-Dodge on the University campus. Other firesides are held in Hopewell and Hamilton Township.

The Baha'i faith, established by Baha'u'llah, which means "The Glory of God," was born in Persia in the middle of the 19th century. It upholds the unity of God, recognizes the unity of His Prophets, and advances the principle of one-ness of the entire human race.

Kenneth L. Wachtel

For more information about the Baha'i faith, call Frank Landolfi, 4 Harris Road, 924-8470.

FUND CHAIRMAN NAMED

At All Saints'. Kenneth L. Wachtel of Sand Hill Road, Kendall Park, has been named chairman of the annual Stewardship Campaign of All Saints' Church. The drive for funds will be launched Sunday during a congregational dinner at the church, located on All Saints' Road. The theme of the campaign is Creative Giving To Christ.

Assisting Mr. Wachtel are Mrs. Robert Guthrie and Gordon Mack of Princeton, Rudolph Peterson of Jamesburg and Eugene Langhans of Kendall Park. The Youth Committee is composed of Arthur Kiegler, Kevin Wachtel and Miss Virginia Young.

PRAYER DAY TUESDAY

At University Chapel. Princeton University Chapel will join in a national day of "humiliation, fasting, and prayer" next Tuesday.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest Gordon, Dean of the University Chapel, said the special day will be observed from 7 a.m. through 7 p.m., during which time more than a dozen members of the Princeton community will lead prayers at the Chapel.

A Congressional resolution setting aside the day called "upon the people of our nation to humble ourselves as we see fit, before our Creator to acknolwedge our final dependence upon Him and to repent of our national sins," Dean Gordon pointed out.

NAACP PLANS PROGRAM

For Scholarship Help. Two high school students have been named "Students of the Year" as part of a stepped-up scholarship program, "Operation AWARE" just getting under way in the offices of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Central Jersey branch. Headquarters are in the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

Debra Scudder, of Princeton High School, and Walter Waters Jr. of Montgomery High School, are the students. In addition, certificates of merit have been presented to three other students. Awards were made at a "Recognition Dinner Dance" held April 13.

Those receiving certificates were Christine Edwards, Princeton High; Cindy Snead, Hightstown and Charles Washington, Freehold. The Central Jersey branch of the NAACP extends from Freehold, Jamesburg, Hightstown and South Brunswick, through Princeton to Hopewell.

"'AWARE' stands for Advance with Reliable Education," explains Major Aaron Givens Jr., education chairman for the branch. Major Givens is deputy director of the ROTC program at Princeton University. "We plan to visit parents and students in their homes, sit down with them and ask how we can help students to reach their life goals. So often, both black parents work all day and cannot get out to attend meetings on these subjects."

The program, scheduled to start early in the fall, will be run with the help of high-school counsellors, notices in the bulletins of black churches, youth center, PTO organizations.

Art People Day!

This year's Art People Party (Saturday, May 11) has been dedicated—with his consent—to W. Shakespeare. It will be held around McCarter Theatre, and younger participants will get there via a parade of wheelbarrows and wagons decorated in suitably Elizabethan style.

So far, 68 craftsmen, 17 painters and five cooks have signed up to show and demonstrate their wares. Crafts people and artists in these categories (and photography, also) should register before the end of the day Friday, May 3, at the Chamber of Commerce, 44 Nassau. (Registration must be in person).

Musicians who want to play anything at all, are asked to register with Caroline Moseley, 921-3588.

Jesters, gymnasts or leap-froggers should sign in with Miles Dumont, 924-9247.

"We want to tell parents what the educational opportunities are," says Mrs. Grace Wilson, president of the NAACP branch. "There are more scholarship programs, in various fields, than children or parents are aware of, and we want to make them aware. We've found students who have no scholarship aid and who need it badly. We think we can fill this gap."

"Kids often lost out because we assume a bright kid will seek out information, and ask just the right questions," Major Givens observes. "We want to get the community to accept us and to work with us, because education is THE key and kids are our greatest resource."

The NAACP hopes for the funds to award at least one full scholarship a year, Mrs. Wilson says. So far, the branch has given partial aid to three students in the past two years. Funds have come from business organizations—Phelps-Dodge and IBM are among them—and from merchants who bought advertisements in the April 13 "Recognition Dinner Dance" program.

Four members of the Central Jersey branch will join Major Givens in his visits to homes. They are Mrs. Charlotte Gipson, Mrs. Helen Bess, the Rev. Floyd Rhodes and Arthur Douglas.

The branch has had offices in Princeton since 1971. Mrs. Wilson says that it is not organization policy to publicize membership numbers.

"The NAACP has been in the courtroom; now, we're getting into the community," is Mrs. Wilson's comment on the new program.

WHWH REPORT ISSUED

Attacks FCC Rules. Nassau Broadcasting Company, which last fall conducted an experiment to test the practicality of the "fairness doctrine" and "equal time" requirements of the Federal Communications Commission, last week issued a 100-page report sharply criticizing the requirements.

The experiment consisted primarily of asking a question-of-the-week during last fall's gubernatorial campaign. Because 12 candidates were legally entered in the race, Nassau Broadcasting, which operates station WHWH in Princeton and WPST in Trenton, could not ask the question of one candidate without also asking all others.

Because of these FCC requirements, Nassau Broadcasting concluded, "While 95 percent of New Jersey citizens were only interested in either the Democratic candidate, Brendan Byrne, or Charles Sandman, Republican, the company could not ask a weekly question of them without putting on the other 10 candidates. Thus, no real in-depth analysis and interviewing could be done without turning the station into a grossly over-politicized station which would do little except lose listeners and alienate many of those who would not care about minor candidates but who do care about the real issues and the principal candidates."

"It is the public who loses key candidate exposure in the electronic media," says the report, which is entitled "Americans...One of Your Freedoms Is Missing." Copies of the report, priced at $3 to cover costs, are available from Nassau Broadcasting, 221 Witherspoon Street.

According to Herbert W. Hobler, president of Nassau Broadcasting, the booklet has been forwarded to 22 United States Senators, 28 Representatives, all FCC Commissioners, officials of the NAB, the television and radio networks, 50 State Broadcasters Associations, and to the Communications branch of the White House.

Double Standards. "This report graphically demonstrates that by adhering to the letter of the law, by spending thousands of dollars, and by disrupting an entire staff and on-air sound, that the Fairness Doctrine and Equal Time Law can be enforced under these conditions", Mr. Hobler stated. "However, it also dramatically demonstrates that the double standards of freedom of the press in this country inhibit the broadcaster, deny Americans their rights to totally diverse opinions, and most important, effectively prohibits broadcasters from serving the public with responsible journalism as it dictated and conceived by the First Amendment."

Among the facts developing out of the seven-week pre-election air time exposure on the subject, WHWH and WPST independently endorsed a total of 46 candidates, taking total elapsed time among them of only 14 minutes. The stations were liable, however, for some 395 minutes of response time as dictated by the present Equal Time Law and Fairness Doctrine.

Mr. Hobler stated, "It is high time that broadcasters stood up to Congress and the FCC on matters which affect their basic freedoms which, in turn, directly affect the public. I am hopeful that many other broadcasters will read this report, get on the air and challenge those federal regulations which deny them and the public equality with the free press."

Mr. Hobler also is Chairman of the New Jersey Broadcasting Committeeon Media Freedoms and is also now dealing on the air with the double press standards of the lottery while challenging Congressmen and Senators to use free time on the stations to speak on this and other issues.

TELL BOHEN...

Your Views. At a Sunday brunch on May 5, Congressional hopeful Fred Bohen will listen to the views of anybody who wants to come.

The affair will be held from 11 a.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kane, 20 Adams Drive. After the brunch, discussion groups, each led by specialists in various fields, will explore ideas on subjects ranging from the energy crisis to women's rights to foreign policy.

PHS CAN'T HOLD LEAD

Hun Wins, 7-5. Junior Pete Watson, making his first start, struck out 14 batters, and outfielder Steve Kopp ripped a long shot to deep center for his first high school home run, but the Princeton High School baseball team was unable to prevent visiting Hun Tuesday from scrapping back and fashioning a 7-5 victory. As a result, PHS lost its third in a row and dipped to 2-3.

Coach Don Blankenbush's Little Tigers will be busy during the next week. They will be at Ewing Friday, Princeton Day school Monday, St. Anthony Tuesday and were scheduled to oppose Steinert—the team picked to win the Mercer County title—here this Wednesday.

PHS got only four hits off Hun pitcher Dave Clark but it bunched three of them in the first when Bob Zinsmeister, George Reynolds and John Mooney all singled and Steve Kopp stole two bases for two runs. It picked up another unearned run in the second and added its final tally when Kopp led off the sixth with his tremendous smash.

When it wasn't striking out, Hun was hitting the ball hard—eight hits off Watson—and taking advantage of several costly PHS errors. A walk, Jeff Petrone's triple and Paul Soderman's single accounted for two runs in the second.

Bruce LiSooey, guilty of a three-base error the inning before, singled home Bob Rizzi and Dave Pone who had singled and doubled before him in the fifth. PHS then booted the game away in the sixth. With two out, catcher Mark Dalton after Watson's 11th strike out tried to pick a runner off second.

His wild throw got by shortstop George Reynolds and the return throw to third was missed by two more PHS players, allowing the go-ahead run to score. Pone then singled home the sixth run. Lonnie Cathel tripled home Hun's final run in the seventh.

A FOXY SOLUTION TO THE GAS PROBLEM.

The Fox by Audi gets about 25 miles to the gallon. Which is about average for an economy car. The thing is, the Fox isn't an economy car. It's a sports sedan. It does 0 to 50 in 8.4 seconds. It has sports car steering and suspension. As well as front-wheel drive. And the fact that you can buy a car that has all this (and more) for only $3,400* provides a Foxy solution to another problem as well.

SO NICE TO COME HOME TO

A Quiet Street within walking distance of Pennington; an attractively landscaped lot of almost an acre; a Scholz-designed ranch house; formal living room with dining ell, large bright kitchen, family room with fireplace and sliding glass doors to rear yard, 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths, full basement, central air, and 2-car garage $72,500

BUY A HOUSE IN PRINCETON TOWNSHIP—THEY DON'T MAKE THEM ANY MORE

At least they won't until the moratorium ends. And even when they do, it's not likely that they'll offer as much as this Shady Brook Colonial split-level with 5 bedrooms, 2½ baths, fireplace, central air, basement area, 2-car garage, and a lot of nearly an acre $83,000

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Indeed, this is a home that the entire family will enjoy. Situated on a quiet Lawrence Township street within walking distance of schools, the lot is nicely treed and landscaped. The house of 2-story Colonial design, has 8 rooms, 2½ baths, fireplace in both the living and family rooms, central air conditioning, basement, and one-car garage $67,500

THE GEOMETRIC APPROACH

Nearly new Colonial split-level is situated at the end of a cul-de-sac in Montgomery Township. From there it's just two right angles and biking distance to both the elementary and high schools. Eight rooms, 2½ baths, and 2-car garage, on a one-acre lot. $65,000

SOME LIKE THEM SMALL

In Princeton Township, on a low-traffic street within walking distance of the University, is a 25-year old 2-story home with 6 rooms, 1½ baths, fireplace, basement, one-car garage, and an easy-to-maintain lot measuring about 65'x90' $59,500

AND SOME LIKE THEM BIG

Also a short walk from the University is this impressive 2½-story dwelling, containing two large apartments, one with 10 rooms and bath, the other with 5 rooms and bath. Situated on Nassau Street in Princeton Borough. $127,500

EAST MEETS WEST

Westerly Road, in fact, is the site of this two-level Contemporary in an Oriental motif. It's a unique, interesting house (built-in Philippine luan mahogany cabinets, for example), but still offering fine functional utility. Across the rear of the house is a 10x30' balcony screened-porch overlooking a Sylvan pool and the beautifully landscaped yard $108,000

ENJOY GOLF AND SWIMMING? IT'S EASIER TO GET TO WHERE YOU'D LIKE TO BE IF YOU'RE ALREADY THERE. Behind this handsome Colonial is a new in-ground pool; across the street is the site of the proposed Assunpink Park Golf Course. The house, incidentally, will be much appreciated, too—it has 9 rooms, 2½ baths, and a warm sense of home. Situated in West Windsor Township on a ¾-acre lot. $73,500

CONSIDER TWIN RIVERS

This 3-bedroom, 2½-bath, split-level townhouse includes the usual Twin Rivers features, such as walk-to shopping and New York express bus service, and, as an extra feature, an idyllic lakeview setting. Now available at a reduced price of $43,500 to the Penn Central station from this pleasant ranch-house, conveniently located in West Windsor Township between Princeton and Princeton Junction. Features a 14x28' living/dining room with fireplace, family room, 3 bedrooms, bath, and one-car garage $52,000

IT'S A HOP, SKIP, AND A JUMP

A COUNTRY SETTING

A short walk from the village of Lawrenceville, on Cold Soil Road, is a handsome and solid 20-year old Colonial with 4 bedrooms, 1½ baths, fireplace, central air conditioning, and an exceptionally pretty lot $64,500

THIS ELM RIDGE PARK HOUSE IS SO LUXURIOUS YOU'D NEVER BELIEVE IT'S PRACTICAL

But it is - eminently so. Center hall, living room with fireplace, formal dining room, large modern kitchen, family room with fireplace and wet bar, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, central air conditioning, full basement, 2-car garage, and a 1½-acre homesite overlooking Honey Lake $112,000

INVESTORS

We have just listed two fine properties on West Broad Street in Hopewell Borough. Each offers a good income now and even better prospects for the future. They are priced at $88,500 and $89,500, but for complete details, give us a call.

High School Scholars Excel at Princeton University Courses

Suppose you're a 17-year-old high school kid and one of the world's foremost authorities on the origins of the universe gives you an A-plus for a final mark in an advanced physics course you're taking with him at a neighboring university. Or that you've successfully finished every math course your highly-regarded high school has to offer by the end of your sophomore year and are enrolled, to find more challenge, in an advanced math course at that same university studying what's called "complex analysis."

Or perhaps you've arranged what's left of your high school play around Latin 401, French 403, and Greek 101—college level—after digesting a total of 12½ years of language study at your own school.

There are some two dozen young men and women who have been doing just that at Princeton University, young people still in secondary school who are taking courses for credit, at the University.

Courses are Free. No tuition's involved. "It's a kind of hands-across-Nassau-Street thing," suggests Robert E. VanVranken, Jr., of the University's Registrar's Office, referring to a little-known town-gown relationship which has been going on for some years now.

Involved currently are 17 students from Princeton High School and another seven from Hopewell Valley and Lawrence High Schools, the Gun School, Princeton Day School, and Lawrenceville School. Most are schools which also cooperate in accepting Princeton University undergraduates as student teachers as they work for state certification in a special program of teacher preparation at Princeton.

Cooperation of high school guidance counselors and Princeton faculty is critical in the program, and normally each participating student is accepted only after a conference which also includes VanVranken and, often, parents. Effort is made to make absolutely certain that the teenager has, indeed, tackled everything his own school has to offer in the specialized discipline involved, and that Princeton University can constructively offer further instruction.

For Andrew Redfield, of 80 Woodside Lane, it meant four courses at Princeton during his high school junior year (two each in math and physics) and three during his senior year (two in physics; one in math).

Rare A+. "Nobody did better work than he did; he worked like a Trojan and was mathematically meticulous," remembers Dr. John A. Wheeler, world-renowned physicist, his Princeton teacher in two advanced physics courses normally open only to college honors students.

UNIVERSITY COURSES FOR HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS: Fruit flies, under study here by two Princeton High School seniors, are useful in the study of genetics during a Biology 202 Laboratory at Princeton University. The girls, Susan Zenel, 17, (right), of 536 Lake Drive, and Cathy Watson, 17, of 24 McLean Circle are dissecting the larva of the flies to get at salivary glands in order to work on a chromosome project. Both girls take the course at Princeton University, under a cooperative program with several area schools.

Redfield, at the time a Princeton High School senior, did a major research paper entitled "Stability of Plasma in Thermonuclear Reactors," an effort which Wheeler today still calls "A nice study, a graduate level study." Wheeler gave Redfield a rare A-plus in the course, highest mark in the class.

The youth got an A or an A-plus in all the other courses he took here, too. "I worked harder than I did at the high school, but I didn't find the courses terribly difficult." he remarked the other day. The former high school valedictorian, is now enrolled at Princeton University as a freshman; expects to major in physics; and will probably graduate in three years (as a result of advanced placement credits).

Then there's Ho Jin Lee, son of a mathematician, who as an eighth grader found the advanced math problems in some of his father's books interesting and not unsolvable. It didn't take young Lee long to breeze through all the mathematics courses offered by Lawrence High School, including calculus, and a variety of "independent work" supplied by the chairman of the school's math department. At that point Miss Celeste Rauro, assistant principal in charge of instruction, suggested young Lee might find the further challenge he needed up the road at Princeton.

"It has worked out very, very well," she observed.

"Unintelligible" Math. Last year Lee took two advanced algebra courses here. This fall, with Professor Michael Reed, he tackled a course which covered such unintelligible-to-the-layman material as "Cauchy integral theorem, power series, residues and poles, elementary conformal mapping...the functions of a complex variable." Prof. Reed is excited by the quietly-run program for high schoolers, and he's particularly happy with Lee, who at 16 is hardly a layman when it comes to mathematics. With a course entitled "Real Analysis" this spring, young Lee will complete the required advanced courses for Princeton undergraduate math majors. "These," remarks Reed, "are the really difficult ones."

Languages are a snap for Jan Ziolkowski, Jr., Princeton High School senior from 101 Broadmead, and drawing from a surprisingly wide offering at his school he's already completed four years of Russian and French, three of Latin, and a year-and-a-half of German. To a secondary school program rich in languages he added last fall more Latin, French---and Greek---through offerings from Princeton.

"I want to express my gratitude to the University; it helped me a lot," Ziolkowski told a caller the other day. "I wouldn't have wanted to go a fourth year to high school if this option was closed to me." He plans a college program in medieval studies, and he adds "language knowledge fits into this perfectly."

Although marks are given and reported to the high schools (there's only been two F's to date, both chalked up by the same student; most grades are A's or B's), most students---like those from Princeton High School---do not get credit at their schools toward graduation for the University work. This, says Frank Soda, PHS Assistant Principal, is barred by state education laws.

Students themselves find they run into few, if any, problems.

Academic Competitions. They tend to hide the fact that they are still in high school, but most of their fellow classmates eventually find out. If it makes any difference at all (and Princeton faculty involved think it does not), it may be that some University students see them as academic competitors.

Andre Maman, as associate professor of French, feels that perhaps one drawback is that the young students "don't get enough out of the out-of-classroom experience"---like eating at a French table at dinner.

But Prof. Maman, who's worked with many of the high schoolers over the years, is among the program's most enthusiastic supporters.

"Their participation is good; they contribute to the class; they are among our best students; you just don't notice they are high school kids," says the former assistant dean of the college. "We treat them exactly as if they were Princeton University undergraduates; that's understood right from the beginning."

"The problem is," adds Maman, "that the students involved should be in college in the first place.

"Personally, I like the whole idea of the program," he goes on to say. "It is a small way we can repay the high schools for helping our own seniors in their preparation for teaching careers. Sure, it involves some extra work; but that doesn't bother me one bit."

Jolanne Luchak and Emily Swartzentruber did well in two advanced French classes las year as Princeton High School seniors. Now they are doing equally as well in their French studies as Princeton freshmen. In math, physics, Spanish, Greek, biology, and Russian the story is the same.

Dinner Theatre at Treadway Offers Excellent Fare on Table and Stage

Dinner and the theatre -- the classic "evening out." It's a lot simpler when it's all in one place, all in one package, all on one ticket....and all within ten minutes of Princeton.

The dinner-theatre has been flourishing in many towns and shopping centers on the eastern seaboard. Now it's come to the Treadway Inn on Route One in West Windsor and we think you'll find the Treadway a genial, relaxed place for an evening of entertainment.

Neil Simon's comedy, "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers," is on stage now. It will play through Sunday, May 19.

Performances are Tuesday through Friday at 8:30 with dinner at 6:30; Saturday at 9 p.m. with a 7 p.m. dinner hour and Sundays at 7:30 with an early dinner at 5:30.

You pay $10 per person ($11 on Saturdays), which covers dinner and the price of the theatre-ticket. Drinks and tip are extra. Reservations should be made: at 452-2229.

The Treadway is a motor inn and you eat dinner in the main dining-room, perhaps with a pre-dinner drink in the dim and inviting bar, or maybe with a drink at your table.

The menu is more or less fixed, although there is a choice among three entrees: roast beef, breast of chicken a la kiev and stuffed flounder with a Newburg sauce. We don't know about the flounder, but beef and chicken were excellent.

Green beans, potatoes au gratin, tossed salad with the usual choices in dressing. Tomato juice to start, sherbet or chocolate sundae to conclude, with a warm loaf of pumperknickel to slice as thick as you like, and to consume as ballast throughout the meal. Coffee, of course.

After dinner, you go upstairs to a balcony overlooking the dining-room. This is the outer lobby, so to speak, and there's a small bar. Go through a door and you're in a conference room, converted to a theatre.

You sit on conference-style chairs (leather seats, padded) and you can move the chairs around so your party can all sit together. You can smoke while you watch the play and if you stroll to the balcony-lobby at intermission to buy a drink, you can bring your drink back with you. to sip as you watch the next act.

The Simon comedy is tremendously entertaining and very well done in this production directed by Lee Yopp. John Svar, wet of palm and dry of mouth, is hilarious and endearing as Barney, middle-aged owner of a fish restaurant, floundering helplessly as he tries to land his catch (ANY catch....who needs a prize?). The role is a long one with a thousand temptations to mug it up. But Mr. Svar steers a straight course, keeps us laughing and sympathetic, and never goes overboard.

The three women who blunder into his net are played by Gloria Willis and, in a dual role, Michelle Giannini. Our favorite is Ms. Giannini as Bobbie, the psychotic nymphette whose experiences with men are as long and breathless as her skirt is brief and breathless. Jeannette, the up-tight matron, gives Ms. Giannini a chance to be versatile, but she had more fun as Bobbie.

Gloria Willis' earthy Polish babe, packed tight as a kielbasa, is a good start for the play but sometimes you feel that she overdoes it a little. Maybe Barney thought so, too, and that's why....but never mind.

One Cavil. Why not a more imaginative set? It's the one-room apartment of an elderly New York Jewish lady with a devotion to Mt. Sinai Hospital and Good Works. It should have been jammed with family pictures, an heirloom menorah, fuddy-duddy furniture from 1921, a TV set. Looks more like a college dorm before the freshmen move in.

Try the Treadway. It's dinner and theatre in the easiest and most genially informal manner.

FINAL PLAY SET

By Community Players. "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," by Robert Anderson, will be the final offering of the season by the Princeton Community Players. Casting has been completed and rehearsals are in progress under the direction of Players' ex-president Leo J. Cohen.

"You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" was included in the "The Best Plays of 1966-1967." Otis L. Buernsey, the editor, described it as "a program of four one-acters, all on the periphery of sexual matters." They are commedies with serious overtones.

The first playlet, "The Shock of Recognition," will be acted by Norman Friedman, Jeff Hall, Liz Berg and Allan Pierce. Cast in "The Footsteps of Doves" are Phil O'Donohue, Joyce Wacks, Lloyd Watterworth and Judy Webber. The most serious of the short plays is "I'll Be Home for Christmas," and will be played by Lorin Zissman, Rosemary Arcieri and Dana Benarde. Jeff Hall and Anne Judson are cast as an elderly couple, looking back, in "I'm Herbert."

Six performances are planned, on May 24, 25, 26, 30, 31 and June 1 at the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church in Princeton.

PHS PRODUCTION SET

For This Weekend. Princeton High School will be presenting the first of it's On Stage productions this Friday and Saturday. The two one-act plays are Edna St. Vincent Millay's "Aria Da Capo" and August Strindberg's "Miss Julie".

"Aria Da Capo", a tragedy off-set by comedy, is directed by Steve Redfield, a Sophmore at the High School. The cast includes John Wible as Pierrot, Meg Starr as Columbine, Geoff Becker as Cothurnus, Miriam Lewin as Thyrsis and Judy Applegate as Corydon. Gabrielle Levine is the stage manager.

"Miss Julie" is also a tragedy, it takes place during the 1880's in a Swedish manner house. Ellen Breckenridge, a graduating junior, is the director and Sarah Rabinowitz is stage manager. The cast consists of Miss Julie played by Dinah PoKempner, Jean the valet is performed by Nick Halpern and the maid, Kristen, is portrayed by Robin Goldman.

The production crew consists of Steve Ludlum as lighting head, Chris Negus as set construction chief, Susie Ryan as costume misstress and Silvia Sabadell as props manager.

The production will be performed in the Princeton High School Auditorium at 8:00 and admission will be 75 cents for students and $1 for adults.

scheduled for early May production.

"The Sleepwalker," originally planned for mid-May, has been cancelled altogether due to illness in the company.

"'Tis Pity She's a Whore," by John Ford, concerns the incestuous love affair between a young gentlewoman and her brother. In spite of the sister's eventual marriage to another man, the result of the incestuous liason is death for both the lovers.

Mark Nelson, who played Pompey in Intime's "Measure for Measure" will be the brother. The sister will be Kimberly Myers, who played Mrs. Barker in "The American Dream."

ISRAELI COMEDY COMING

To John Witherspoon School. An Israeli film comedy, "The Policeman," is coming to Princeton on Sunday, May 5.

Two performances of the Academy Award Nominee for the Best Foreign Film in 1972 have been scheduled for 7 and 9 p.m. at the John Witherspoon School. Admission is $2.50 per person.

First in a series of Israeli films, "The Policeman" concerns a Chaplinesque police officer who, because of his bad luck and big heart, is facing a less than honorable discharge. In a series of funny, but touching escapades, the hero, portrayed by comedian Shay K. Ophir, tries to redeem himself by capturing a group of notorious underworld figures. The movie was filmed in color in Jaffa, Israel, and uses English sub-titles.

The Princeton Chapter of Hadassah is sponsoring the benefit performance with funds designated for the rebuilding of Hadassah Hospital on Mt. Scopus in Jerusalem, closed since 1948.

Assisting the co-chairmen, Mrs. Burt Baum and Mrs. William Engler, are Mrs. David Rosenfeld - tickets; Mrs. Loren Hurwitz and Mrs. Michael Miller - flyer; Mrs. Ralph Tartar - posters; and Mrs. Phillip Carchman, Mrs. Murray Bornstein and Mrs. Henry Marder - committee.

Tickets will be available at the door or can be purchased in advance at Center Stationers in the Princeton Shopping Center, Thorne's Pharmacy and Nassau Pharmacy; in Princeton Junction, at Lucar Hardware, in Montgomery Township Shopping Center at Titles Unlimited; and in Lawrenceville Shopping Center at the Etcetera Card Shop.

Milton Lyon is directing. Book, music and lyrics are carefully guarded secrets.

BRAHMS' REQUIEM

Guest musician will be Teddy Primas on sax and flute. Besides the Ajile Dancers, other dancers will participate, an there will be poetry from the Kuumba Poetry Workshop.

This Friday's performance will be one of the last three to be given this season by Ajile. The next, on Sunday, May 5, will be an afternoon of dancing to Gospel, Spiritual and popular music. The annual spring performance by Ajile, "Escape to the Sun," will be held in mid-May, at a date to be announced.

BALLET COMING

Regional Company. The final event in McCarter's current dance series will be the appearance of the Princeton Regional Ballet Company in a program of six ballets, to be danced on Sunday, May 12, at 3 p.m. in McCarter.

Three of the ballets will be premiered at this performance. The first, "Encounters," was choreographed by Ruth Langridge and has been chosen for performance in Dayton, Ohio at the Northeast Regional Ballet Association dance festival. The Princeton Regional Ballet competed for performance with 15 other companies in this region and was chosen an "honor company" for the seventh consecutive time.

Another new baltet to be danced on May 12 will be "Introduction and Handel Suite," by Lila Popper Brunner, ballet mistress of the Princeton company and former soloist with the New York City Ballet. Music is by Eric Satie and Handel.

David Anderson, former soloist with the San Francisco Ballet, has choreographed the third new ballet. It is "Mosaics."

The Regional Company's "Circus," twice performed at Northeast Regional festivals, will also be on the program. Circus band music provides the beat.

"To Unfurl the Fan," a humorous discourse on 18th century manners, will be given for the first time at McCarter, although it has been danced at the Northeast festival. Myra Kinch is choreographer. Her composer-husband, Manuel Gales, will be at the piano keyboard and will also be narrator.

Joan Morton Lucas' ballet "8x4xBach" (eight dances by four dancers with music by Bach) combines jazz and classicism in an interpretation of the French Suite. The work was commissioned for performance last summer at the Westminster Choir College Harpsichord Festival.

Guest artists David Anderson and Larry Hunt will appear and the company's leading soloists, Dodie Pettit and Judith Leviton will also perform.

Tickets are on sale at the McCarter box-office, or may be obtained by writing the theatre. Prices are $4.95 and $4.50 in the orchestra; $4.50, $3.50 and $2.50 in the balcony.

PLAYHOUSE

The Last Detait is a humanistic drama that skirts both tragedy and hiliarity, and does so with equal effectiveness.

The plot is a simple one. Take two career sailors, excellently played by Jack Nicholson and Otis Young, who have been assigned to transfer an emotionalty constricted 18-year old sailor from Virginia to a naval prison in New Hampshire and who decide to expose him to the facts of life on the way, and you have the core of The Last Detail.

The prisoner, portrayed by Randy Quaid -- and like Nicholson and Young, his is a bravura performance -- has received a trumped up eight-year sentence for petty larceny. Large and verging on retardation, Quaid accepts his fate like a cow led to slaughter. Gradually touched by the unjust misery the kid is heading for, Nicholson and Young, who have a week to carry out their mission, decide to open up a new life for him.

In a series of beautifully detailed episodes, the two gradually introduce the reluctant Quaid into the pleasures of drinking and swearing, the satisfaction of lashing out in blind anger and the deeper pleasures of lovemaking. In one pathos-filled episode, Quaid's buddies buy him some time in a brothel where a listless,

Concert by English Chamber Orchestra Brings An End to Annual Series in McCarter Theatre

To conclude this season's concert series, violinist Pinchas Zukerman appeared with the English Chamber Orchestra Monday on the fourth program of the Princeton University Concerts, Series II, in McCarter.

Zukerman conducted the Orchestra in the first and final pieces on the program: Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 10 in B minor for strings (the number ten is misleading; it is an early work of Mendelssohn's), and Haydn's Symphony No. 46 in B major. In between were two works for violin and orchestra by Mozart: the Concerto in D major, K.218, and a Rondo in C major, K.373, in which Zukerman performed the solo parts.

As a conductor, Zukerman's style is most unorthodox. Almost completely ignoring the job of beating time, he concerns himself mainly with expressing an interpretation, using any motions that may be appropriate for his purposes. He shapes phrases with his hands and arms; he dances and gestures. Sometimes he thrusts his arms and head violently; at other times he refrains from conducting at all. It is a curious, somewhat ungainly technique and probably disconcerting to any orchestra used to more standard signals.

Occasionally Conservative. Zukerman's unique conducting style was most pronounced in the Mendelssohn Symphony; in the Haydn, he seemed to be more conservative overall, but he indulged in his own way frequently enough. In the two Mozart pieces, he conducted only in the "tutti" interludes and, perhaps restrained by the violin he was holding, refrained from his more extravagant movements.

The Orchestra was not distracted at all by its conductor's methods; it played the entire concert with facility. A medium sized ensemble, it could produce both big sounds and delicate ones, full sonorities and transparent ones. It displayed fine control of dynamics and expression, as well as rhythmic precision in fast-moving passages.

MUSIC In Princeton

Mendelssohn's Symphony is in one movement but consists of two main sections: an Adagio introduction connected through a single chord to a complete sonata form unit. The rather tense mood of most of the piece was well captured by the Orchestra, and when the music melted into the lush second theme, the effect was very compelling. A bravura coda brought the work to an exciting close.

The Mozart Concerto received a sparkling rendition. Zukerman's tone was clear and assured as he played the piece from memory. The Orchestra handled its own dynamics and expression well, and was very responsive to Zukerman's solo playing and his occasional indications to the various players. The cadenzas were moderate in scale, and extremely tasteful.

A Delicate Movement. The second movement had passages of great delicacy, with a crystalline, high-register violin part. Mozart also explored the more sonorous low ranges of the violin in this movement, and Zukerman played these very warmly.

The third movement, a "rondeau" with a pot-pourri of melodies and moods, was done with relish. Zukerman played the main theme a trifle on the slow side, detached but not really staccato as it is often done; this enabled the faster music which followed to function as a real contrast.

Then each time the theme returned, he took it a bit slower and a bit more stately, until it had virtually assumed the character of a formal Baroque dance – and each time the contrast with the following music was felt more strongly. Zukerman was obviously enjoying himself here; he almost danced his way through the musette section of the movement.

The Mozart Rondo was a rather unpretentious piece, full of the usual Mozartean charm and elegance. Zukerman was once again able to display his rich tone in the lower registers of the instrument.

The Haydn Symphony began with a somewhat pedestrian interpretation of the opening "Vivace" movement, but the rest of the piece was more impressively executed. The second movement, with muted strings, achieved a beautifully transparent texture, clear and precise. The long phrases of the minuet and trio were broad and rich. Zukerman and the Orchestra took delight in the witty finale, playing up the unpredictable ending for all the humor it was worth.

An appreciate audience was rewarded with two encores of some difficulty: a sicilienne-like movement from Rossini's Sonata No. 1 in C major for strings, and the finale of Mozart's Symphony No. 29 in A major, which incidentally had been performed here by the Cleveland Orchestra last February.

childish whore reluctantly and painfully teaches him the rudiments of love. The film is rated R.

Through their caring, Quaid finally gets strong hints of what life can be. In fact, the taste proves too strong; he makes a futile attempt to escape. But his five day buddies, reacting to the reality of their military career that is their only real life, turn him in. A terse, frank, warm-hearted film -- well acted -- that is consistently truthful. Go see it.

MONTGOMERY

Jeremiah Johnson (now playing) is an exciting story about the trials and tribulations of a would-be mountain man. It reveals man as he is so seldom seen: jubilant, accomplished, the master of his fate and proud of it.

Robert Redford's Jeremiah is a man casting off his past, so the film gives him none except a worn pair of Army pants. He heads for a most uncertain future in the wilds of Utah, where the terrain changes suddenly from swirling sands to windswept snowfields to lovely pine groves. The people he meets—Indians who speak French, a bald man buried to his neck in the sand, a crazed pioneer woman trying to tidy up the bodies of her children recently killed by Indians, and more, reveal complexities of character. He marries and acquires a family—only to have both wife and adopted child suddenly murdered. He then embarks on a path of revenge.

The script is pithy and humorous; the acting is fine right down the line, with Allyn Ann McLerie's crazy woman a stand-out, a portrait of a most hardy soul past her tether.

GARDEN

Alfredo, Alfredo. In this ironic comedy, which tackles Italy's social and sexual mores in much the same caustic vein as "Divorce ... Italian Style," Dustin Hoffman is well cast as a timid bank clerk whose love life becomes overly energetic when he weds a possessive shrew in lamb's clothing.

Hoffman (dubbed effectively in Italian) gives a marvelously funny and very Italian performance as the clerk whose love life goes from famine to uncontrollable feast when he lands aggressive Stefania Sandrelli. The latter is Hoffman's perfect nemesis. A deceptively quiet pharmacist, once she lands her man, she turns into a shrill shrew, placing an unbearable sexual and emotional dream on her frail husband. The result is a refreshing, frequently hilarious import.

Their courtship is a series of ironic vignettes. Once married, Ms. Sandrelli soon estranges Hoffman from his friends and family and decides the marriage won't work unless they have a child. It turns out she is "built wrong" and in one of the film's funniest sequences, Hoffman is forced to dash back and forth from the bank to try to impregnate her at her most fertile hours.

Beneath the veneer of cruel humor, director Pietro Germi's film attacks Italy's antiquated social and sexual codes as well as the everyday human frailties that collide with them. Toward the end, it tends to become diluted in legal arguments, many of which have since been changed and loses some of its bite--but the effervescence nonetheless remains.

Coast Guard Radioman David C. Oakley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Oakley of 28 Dodds Lane, has graduated from the Basic Radioman Course at the Coast Guard Training Center in Petaluma, Calif. During the 21-week course he received instruction in typing, international Morse Code, military and commercial communication procedures, teletype communications and the operation of various communication equipment. "Over the past three years," reports the Melvin A. Benarde family of 45 Cuyler Road, "we have basked, swum, combed and poked around on the beaches from Portugal to Israel." They have also asked questions, sampled local food and entertainment, taken photographs, and filled notebooks on their journeys. The result is a book published this month by Dodd, Mead, entitled: "Beach Holidays," a guide to seaside resorts throughout the Mediterranean and southern Europe.

The book is a family effort. The writing was done principally by Dr. Benarde, a professor at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital in Philadelphia and the author of "Our Precarious Habitat," "The Chemicals We Eat" and "Race Against Famine." Maps and drawings are by Anita Benarde. Mrs. Benarde is an author and illustrator of children's books, including "The Pumpkin Smasher" and "Games from Many Lands."

The three Benarde children helped with reporting. "Without the contributions of Scott (University of Massachusetts), Andi (University of Delaware) and Dana (Princeton High School), the beaches could well have been limited to an over-30 view," acknowledges Dr. Benarde.

"Beach Holidays" describes vacation opportunities--and pitfalls--in nine countries. It does not mention the Greek islands. "They are so numerous," promises Dr. Benarde, "that we intend to write a separate book on them."

Lyman Spitzer, Jr., chairman of Princeton University's Department of Astrophysical Sciences, has been awarded the Henry Draper Medal by the National Academy of Sciences.

Professor Spitzer was cited by the Academy "for his vision and distinguished achievements in space astronomy and for his many outstanding contributions to the physics of plasmas on earth and in the interstellar medium."

One of the first scientists to propose an orbiting astronomical observatory, Dr. Spitzer now heads a group of Princeton astronomers who have designed the largest ultraviolet reflecting telescope in space. Launched by NASA in August, 1972, the telescope aboard the Copernicus Satellite has been sending daily readings back to earth for almost 2 years. Information from the satellite is providing scientists with a new view of the universe previously locked in the inaccessible ultraviolet regions of the spectrum.

The award, one of the oldest of the Academy, includes a gold medal, a bronze replica and an honorarium of $1,000.

Dennis Sullivan, of 87 Leavitt Lane, and Ralph D. Hulit Jr., of 110 Washington Road, have completed a course in advanced pump operations offered by the Mercer County Fire School. Both are members of the Princeton Hook and Ladder Fire Company.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to express your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

Dr. Alan Rosenthal, 318 Dodds Lane, has been named director of the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University. He succeeds Donald G. Herzberg, who was director of the institute from its founding in 1956 until last September when he became dean of the Graduate School of Georgetown University.

Dr. Rosenthal, associate director of the institute from 1969 until he was named acting director last year, is a professor of political science. He has done most of his work in the field of legislatures, and teaches a course in that subject in the Rutgers University Graduate School. He will retain his title of director of the Eagleton Center for State Legislative Research and Service.

Dr. Rosenthal received his undergraduate degree from Harvard and was a fellow at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University. He received a Master of Public Affairs, a Master of Arts and a Ph.D. degree from Princeton. Before coming to Eagleton in 1966, he taught at Hunter College and Columbia University.

Dr. Harold P. Furth, professor of astrophysical sciences and co-head of the experimental division of Princeton's Plasma Physics Laboratory, has been named a recipient of this year's Ernest Orlando Lawrence Memorial Award by U.S. Atomic Energy Commission Chairman, Dr. Dixie Lee Ray.

Dr. Furth, along with four other recipients being honored for their contributions to the field of atomic energy, will receive a gold medal, a citation and $5,000 at a ceremony on June 7 at the AEC's Germantown, Md. Headquarters.

As co-head of the experimental division of Princeton's Plasma Physics Laboratory, Dr. Furth's major contribution has been to the theoretical and experimental understanding of the physics of plasmas confined in Tokamak geometries.

A plasma is a hot ionized gas in which, if the gas is hot enough and dense enough, fusion will occur. Fusion is the process by which the nuclei of atoms fuse and liberate huge amounts of energy. Tokamaks are doughnut-shaped apparatuses in which the plasma, confined by a magnetic field, is compressed and heated. Controlled thermonuclear fusion is looked upon as a potential future energy source which could supply almost limitless amounts of energy.

At Princeton's Plasma Physics Laboratory, Dr. Furth conceived the major ideas involved in the adiabatic toroidal compression (ATC) experiments which demonstrated a feasible means of heating Tokamak reactors and achieved the highest Tokamak densities anywhere in the world.

According to Edward A. Frieman, professor of astrophysical sciences and associate director of the Plasma Physics Laboratory, "Furth has been a world leader in the design of confinement devices, in the diagnostic technique used for these devices and in relating the experimental results to current theory. Dr. Furth," Frieman adds, "is universally considered to be one of the foremost leaders in the world fusion community and he has made enormous contributions in the United States."

The history and literature of Athens during the Peloponnesian War will be the focus of study for a group of college teachers this summer under the supervision of Dr. Walter R. Connor, 114 Mercer Street, Professor of Classics. The two-month long summer seminar, funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, will be held at the University of Colorado at Boulder.

The NEH summer seminar program provides an opportunity for faculty members of two-year and smaller four-year colleges to work with recognized scholars in the fields. Professor Connor, the current chairman of the Classics Department at Princeton, specializes in 5th Century Athens, Greek history and historiography.

Dr. Fritz Machlup, 279 Ridgeview Road, Walker Professor of Economics and International Finance, Emeritus, will chair a conference in Hungary this summer, devoted to the theme, "Economic Integration: Worldwide, Regional, Sectional." The Fourth World Congress of the International Economic Association, of which Professor Machlup is the current president, will convene in Budapist for a week in August. Some 2,000 participants from around the world are expected to meet in the plenary sessions and working groups. Professor Machlup will deliver a paper on "The History of Thought on Economic Integration."

Professor Richard D. Challener, 569 Riverside Drive East, chairman of Princeton's Department of History, has been elected a Fellow of the Society of American Historians, a group dedicated to recognizing literary merit in historical writing. He becomes one of 200 Fellows in the Society.

A specialist in American diplomatic and military history, Mr. Challener wrote "The French Theory of the Nation in Arms: 1866-1939," and is currently at work on a book on military aspects of U.S. diplomacy before World War I. He played a major role in the collection of tape-recorded interviews for the University's John Foster Dulles Oral History Project, talking with national and world leaders and others who knew the late Secretary of State.

Peter S. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Thompson of 26 Rollingmead, has been named to the dean's list for the winter term at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa. He is a junior majoring in religion.

Robert McLusky, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. McLusky of 89 Meadowbrook Drive, has been named to the honors list for the fall semester at Claremont Men's College. He is a freshman at the California liberal arts college.

IT'S NEW To Us

INDIAN CRAFTS

At La Mesa. Although originally from the Somerville area, Susan Fisher has spent the past few years living with friends in a large tepee in La Madera, New Mexico. While there she made contemporary sterling and tuoquoise jewelry and in her freetime absorbed much of the Indian culture.

Combining these two interests, Susan has returned to open La Mesa, a store at 195 Nassau Street that specializes in the jewelry, pottery and rugs of the Southwest American Indians.

Some of the jewelry is truly exquisite. From the Navaho Indians we saw a sterling necklace in which each bead is made of four separate pieces that must be chaped, stamped and then soldered together, $375. Susan is quick to point out the many hours of work and craftsmanship that goes into making this jewelry, which ultimately affects its price.

Another time-consuming project is the beaded necklaces made by the Santo Domingo Indians. Olive shells, serpentine stone, coral or tuorquoise must be cut into small pieces, strung on wire and then slowly ground until they are round and smooth. Each strand has several hundred pieces, sterling tips and hooks, and the prices begin at about $40 a strand.

Squash Blossoms. The Zuni Indians have contributed the most beautiful squash blossom necklace we have ever seen. It has many small clusters of matched tuorquoise stones and delicately snaped silver cones, and in the same work there are matching earrings.

We also admired an old belt buckle made of petrified Dinosaur bone decorated with a picture agate, $90; a Navaho sterling bracelet that has been inlaid with tuorquoise chips, $48; and a Peyote ceremonial fan decorated with colorful beadwork and made with pheasant feathers (the traditional eagle ones are illegal), $120.

Not all the jewelry is as expensive as the unique items already mentioned. La Mesa has tourquoise and silver rings from $15, pendants from $10, and bracelets from $27. We particularly liked the pierced earrings of carved shell birds, $20 and $25 if the birds are tuorquoise.

The pottery made by the various Pueblo Indian tribes is hand shaped (no potters wheel is used), hand-painted and low-fired in an adobe kiln. Because the pottery is porous it is purely decorative, the Indians used it for storing things.

Distinguishing Characteristics. Each tribe's pottery has its own characteristics. For instance the Santa Clara Indians produce a black pottery by smoldering dried manure in the kiln during the last part of the firing process. A carved highly polished black basket costs $80, while a small sculptured bear is $8.

As with all art, the prices vary with the experience of the potter. For instance a low jar by the Jemez Indians has a highly detailed black and white geometric design and costs $70, while a vase with a bolder black and white border and a design of birds and flowers is $30. There are also many small vases and cups beginning at $2.

Another feature of the store is the Chaimaya-style rugs. They are hand-woven, can be ordered in any size and color, and because they are not the traditional designs, the prices are very reasonable. The small squares cost $5, a table runner is $25 and a rug is $75.

As a final note, we liked the various art books Susan has in the store as references to the traditional work and art of these Indians. She is very knowledgeable and happy to share her enthusiasms.

La Mesa is open Monday through Saturday from 10 until 5.

WHOLE EARTH EXPANDS

To Help You Fight Inflation. When the Whole Earth Center opened in 1970, it sought to serve the community with good natural foods and information through bulletin boards and interesting books. The word center rather than store was purposely chosen because the founders wished it to serve as a place for the sharing of ideas, versus merely being a retail outlet.

The widespread inflation of recent months has persuaded the Center to double its floor space and enlarge its concept of information sharing. In the belief that an alternative was necessary, it is now providing the tools, resources and information to help start you on projects that hopefully will provide satisfaction in addition to financial benefits.

The inventory will change on a seasonal basis, thus right now the emphasis is on gardening. There is a selection of untreated seeds, with the varieties carefully chosen to grow in this area. These are supplemented by a chart containing information not on the seed packets, such as the day to maturity and specific characteristics of the variety.

True to the Center's aim of reducing costs, some of the seeds are available in bulk and like all things here you can buy anywhere from an ounce to 100 pounds.

Manager, Bart Smith, made it clear that they are not attempting to compete with the hardware stores. There is a limited choice of gardening equipment and it is all top quality. The tools are true temper and they guarantee to replace any you manage to break.

Soil Test Kits. We saw oak baskets for gathering anything from twigs to your vegetable crop later in the summer, $7; a Sudbury Soil Test Kit, $7.95; and all the soil building compounds you need for organic gardening -- phosphate rock, limestone, cow manure, peat moss, bone meal, cocao shell mulch and others.

As with the seeds, bulk bags of potting soil and vermiculite have been opened so you can buy as much as you need at reasonable prices. For instance one pound of potting soil is only eight cents. Then for starting seedlings, the last of 3000 peat pots are on the floor, three for 10 cents.

Shelves built by the store's managers, hold a raft of books, mostly instructional. We saw "The Bug Book - Harmless Insect Controls," "The Mulch Book," "Organic Gardening," and "Tree Identification" just to name a few. There is also a complete set of back issues of "The Mother Earth News."

The summer will start you thinking toward preserving and preparing foods. The Center then will have jars, pressure cookers, small hand grain and food mills, a line of old-fashioned cast iron cookware, and cutlery. The blades for these knives are already in stock, and the store hopes to commission local craftsmen to make the handles.

During the winter months, there will be information on homesteading, plans and kits for out-buildings and greenhouses, and plans for alternative energy sources. Crafts will also be featured and the Center will have parafin in bulk, naturally-dyed wool, and leather and wood supplies.

No Pesticides. In the food area everything should be organically grown (no pesticides or synthetic fertilizers), and it is imperative that it not contain preservatives. For some time now the Whole Earth Center has been buying the most popular foods in bulk form and letting you buy whatever weight you need at a savings. Molasses, soap, flour, and pasta are some of these foods, and brown rice (50 cents a pound) has just been added.

Now the store has gone one step further. Because the bulk price of peanut butter has risen to $1.08 a pound, the store will now grind its own peanut butter at the exceptional price of 70 cents a pound -- don't forget to bring a jar.

To come are a grinder to enable the store to make its own fresh flour and a cooler so there can be a produce section supplied by local merchants.

Also shortly to be operating is a small conservation reference library managed by the Sierra Club, Friends of the Princeton Environment and the Conservation Coalition. Although the materials will not circulate, there will be a reading table and pot of coffee to encourage you to take advantage of the many books and magazines they plan to have.

The Whole Earth Center is at 360 Nassau Street and the hours are from 10 to 6 Monday through Saturday with Thursday evening hours until 8.

STONEHENGE IN WOOD: This piece of sculpture by Jene Teller typifies the balences end interrelationships of spece and form in her work. The forms ere grouped to intensify their petterns and to contrast with the plane of the base. The work is now on view et the Princeton Gellery of Fine Art.

SCULPTURE APPEALS

At Gallery of Fine Art. For the most profound experience when viewing sculpture, the observer must develop an additional set of responses. The inclusion of a third dimension in a work of art creates a whole new set of standards by which visual pleasure can be obtained.

Such criteria as varieties of surface, integral characteristics of materials, use of volumes and tension created by interaction of the surrounding spaces, and the ability of the work of art to be visually pleasing from all points of view are combined with standards that are applied to all works of art. Elements such as balance, movement interaction of space and form are also considered along with the main question, does it please? Is it beautiful?

Sometimes the sculptor will develop a particularly profound feeling for certain materials and convey this additional sensitivity enabling the viewer to share the artist's tactile and visual responses.

Jane Teller, whose sculpture is now on view at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, has a thing for wood. A bit of the Druid must be included in Ms. Teller's history to enable her to respond so intensely and creatively to this medium and to communicate so easily with her audience.

Sculpture that is monumental in size is included with much smaller works. No matter the size, the pieces are scaled to create exciting balances and interrelationships of space and form setting visual pulses aflutter.

Notable in the collection is the use of contrast to heighten relationships. Hollow forms are placed against massive volumes. Cleanly constructed vertical elements intereact with curves. Circular elements in the wood have been heightened by their placement, squares intereact with rectangles and small forms are grouped to intensify their own patterns and to play against massed planes.

Ms. Teller has also created a variety of visual contrasts by the addition of pieces of metal and the inclusion of shaped photographs of wood surfaces. In both cases the effect is to intensify the natural characteristics of her materials.

Large crayon drawings of olive trunks and bark are executed with a sculptor's eye. The surface is carefully explored and rendered. The contours of the wood and the metamorphic elements of the surface reveal themselves with as much depth as the sculpture they complement.

At the Artisan. A collection of oils and acrylics by Paul Kannapell are featured at the Artisan. They include several figure studies and portraits in both realistic and stylized manner.

Earth tones are dominant. A few small landscapes are sensitively executed in a rich, well-developed palette in an impressionistic mode.

At University Art Museum. Photographs by Danny Lyon are the subject of the Alfred Steiglitz Memorial Exhibition.

Lyon, a young photographer, has devoted the past decade to intense exploration of a few subjects. During each phase, he immersed himself completely in his subject by living among the groups he was observing. Beginning with SNCC and a photo-journalistic record of his experiences in the south, he went on to spend some time with a motorcycle group, did a series exploring the changing facade of lower Manhattan, examined life at a penitentiary in Texas and included vignettes throughout the United States. His most recent work in Colombia, South America, is also displayed.

The various approaches to subject that are included in the collection exemplify many of the stylistic goals of the contemporary photographer. The presentation of a series of fragmented views to yield a complete idea is considered an important photographic approach. The photograph as a study of the human condition and a force for social change has been one of Lyon's major directions.

In the Texas Penitentiary series, there is both the examination of a way of life that is alien to most and the use of the photograph as a vehicle for studying the figure and its surroundings as form and pattern as well as compositional elements. The photograph as a document in recording an idea or series of thoughts is also well illustrated.

Lyon is both direct and conservative in his approach. However, the diversity of subject and the fine portrayal in most of the prints provides interesting viewing.

The exhibit of Contemporary Prints in the Norton Gallery is a potpouri of graphic styles of the past few years. The classical techniques of Leonard Baskin and Charles Wells contrast with intensely-hued op experiences by Vasarely and Anuskiewicz. From Miro to Albers to Andy Warhols pop color rendering of a larger than life Marilyn Monroe, the message is, if you can print it and it hasn't been done, possibly some Museum will buy it. The final statement on that theme is a series by Motherwell composed of many pages of poems and rectangles in colors.

For those interested in the technical range of graphics where technique is often as important as content, this is a well balanced and often stimulating collection.

At Rider College Gallery 7. Graphics by Ann Gross have been brightening the Princeton area for many years. In this latest collection, older works are included with many new prints enabling the viewer to study the changes in this artists work.

Mrs. Gross is increasingly concerned with making a statement about the direction in which life is taking us. She develops her message with great skill and enough wit to make the work pleasurable as well as thoughtful. Television sets, computers, missiles, supermarkets and other aspects of our decade are insidiously depicted with great skill and some humor.

FOOD PLANS UNDERWAY For Hospital Fete. Expecting nothing less than a small army to appear on its grounds June 1, the Hospital Fete is busily preparing plans for providing food in 19 different specialty areas, from family casseroles to frozen desserts.

Coordinating the plans are food co-chairmen Mrs. William Mitchell and Mrs. Richard Seiler. They are assisted by a staff of 39, and expect as many as 600 chefs to help prepare the elements of the family-style casseroles, new this year on the Fete menu.

Food is a major source of income for the Fete, which raises funds for the Princeton Medical Center. The baked goods booth alone, for example, requires a major organizational effort.

Co-chairmen contact every church in the area served by the Medical Center, enlisting support of a coordinator for each church. They contact bakers who spcify their specialities: breads, cakes, cookies, brownies, sweet rolls, ples, etc. They are baked Friday, packaged at the individual churches Friday night, and delivered at dawn Saturday to the Fete grounds on Washington Road.

Last year the baked goods booth used 350 cake boxes, 375 pie boxes, 250 small dessert boxes, 300 waxed bread bags, in addition to making many sales that were consumed on the soot.

Agonizing Choices. The Fete food program results from much neighborhood cooperation. Residents of Rossmoor supply hot dogs and hamburgers. Lions Clubs provide chicken. Cranbury donates homemade fudge. Strawberries are from doctors' wives; coffee and donuts from All Saints' Church; the Presbyterians have a dairy bar; and baked goods flow in from many churches.

The Fete food planners expect their customers to agonize over the selections available. The hors d'oeuvres section will include the Greed combination of phyllo pastry and feta cheese; almond meat balls with pineapply; artichoke cheese squares; shrimp and water chestnut turnover; and mushroom and crab croustades.

Frozen desserts? Take your pick: lemon pie; tortoni; chocolate Charlotte; Texas pecan pie; lime macaroon crunch--a froth of lime sherbet, heavy cream, macaroons and pecans; Brandy Alexander pie; cheesecake pie; and strawberry chiffon pie. And this year pies will be sold by the piece as well as whole.

Food choices may also be made early in the day. Selections will be marked and kept frozen, if necessary, until the end of the day.

N.O.W. TO MEET HERE This Weekend. A reception open to the public will launch a two-day meeting of the National Board of Directors of the National Organization for Women beginning at 8 p.m. Friday at the Woman's Place, 14½ Witherspoon Street. Feminists and friends from the Princeton area are invited to attend the reception and welcome members of the National N.O.W. Board including President Wilma Scott Hiede, Vice President Ann Scott, and Board member Suzanne Stocking, formerly of Princeton. Refreshments of wine and cheese will be provided at the reception, and admission will be a donation of $1 at the door.

As part of a regular program of rotating meeting sites, the N.O.W. National Board will meet in Princeton at the Treadway Inn, Saturday, and Sunday. Board members will be arriving from states as far away as California for the weekend meeting.

Although most of the business of the meeting will also be open to the public, the reception is planned as an informal gathering where members of the Board will be able to talk to area feminists and friends about programs of the National Organization for Women.

FETE BREADWINNERS: Mrs. Richard Seiler, left, and Mrs. William Mitchell prepare homemade bread in preparation for this year's Hospitel Fete on June 1. Sponsors of the annual benefit program for the Medical Center promise that this year's food offerings will be more veried end more irresistible than ever.

Central New Jersey N.O.W. members hope all interested women from the Princeton area attend the reception and learn more about issues of interest to N.O.W., whether or not they have been formally affiliated with N.O.W. or other feminist groups.. Says Joan Errickson, Chapter Coordinator: "We'd like to give the National N.O.W. Board a big welcome to Princeton, and hope that many individuals who have not previously participated in feminist activities will feel free to attend."

Princeton area residents will be familiar with some of the officers and members of the N.O.W. National Board because of recent publicity surrounding the Ladies Home Journal selection of Women of the Year, and continuing N.O.W. activities. Ms. Hiede was nominated in the humanitarian category of this competition. A behavioral scientist by profession, she is also a member of the National Policy Council of the National Women's Political Caucus and the National Equality Committee of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Vice President Scott heads the Legislative Office in Washington, D.C. The primary concern of the N.O.W. Legislative Office during 1973-74 has been coordination of state efforts to secure ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

An added attraction at the reception for the N.O.W. National Board will be a preview of paintings by Sebet Silverman which will be shown and available for sale Saturday at the Woman's Place. Between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. on the 27th, Mr. Silverman will be present at the art show and will make portrait sketches on request.

FALK TO SPEAK On Kissinger's Work. Dr. Richard A. Falk, Professor of International Law and critic of U.S. foreign policy, will speak on "What's Wrong with Henry Kissinger?" at the University-NOW Day Nursery, 171 Broadmead, Tuesday, April 30, at 8 p.m. A $2 donation will benefit Nursery scholarships.

Dr. Falk who is also an Associate at the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton, is the father of two children at the school, Dimitri, 5, and Noah, 3. A persistent opponent of the Vietnam war, he visited North Vietnam in the summer of 1968 and helped to create a peace plan which he believed acceptable to the United States, North Vietnam, and the National Liberation Front in South Vietnam.

A 1955 Yale Law School graduate, Dr. Falk specializes in international law, arms control, and disarmament. He has acted as counsel for several nations before the International Court of Justice, and was an official observer for the International Commission of Jurists at several political trials in South Africa in 1968.

BENEFIT SCHEDULED By Cancer Society. "Let No Woman be Overlooked," is the theme of a four-year nationwide drive of the American Cancer Society, launched in 1972, to reduce the number of deaths from uterine cancer.

More than 12,000 American women die each year of uterine cancer, 75 percent of these fatalities resulting from cervical cancer which is almost 100 percent curable when diagnosed and treated promptly. The program has one specific goal: a Pap test for every woman.

The area task force, the Committee for Uterine Cancer Detection Benefit of the Mercer County Unit, will sponsor "A Cocktail Hour in Turkey" on Saturday, May 4 from 5 to 8 pm. in the Robinson Lounge of the Unitarian Church. The public is invited to participate in the fund raising for the public education program of the American Cancer Society.

During the cocktail party, Tambil, the International Belly Dancer, will give two performances. She was born and educated in Istanbul where she was a member of the Conservatoire de Ballet. She is now a resident of Franklin and teaches Yoga and Belly Dancing at the YMCA in New Brunswick, The Jewish Community Center in Trenton, and private classes in Princeton.

ANNUAL DINNER MAY 2 For Watersheds Association. Land use planning, a key factor in preserving a livable environment, will be discussed in the keynote address at the upcoming annual dinner of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association.

William K. Reilly, president of the Conservation Foundation, a Washington-based organization which has taken a leading role at the Federal level in encouraging sensible land use planning, will be the main speaker at the dinner.

The event, which is open to both members and nonmembers of the association, will be held May 2 at 7:45 at the Nassau Inn. Reservations may be made by telephone call to 737-3735 or by writing the Watersheds at Box 171, Pennington, N.J. 08534. Dinner tickets cost $9.

Mr. Reilly, a lawyer and planner, took office as president of the Conservation Foundation in 1973, after serving as executive director of Lawrence S. Rockefeller's Task Force on Land Use and Urban Growth.

He was director of the Task Force's final report, "The Use of Land: a Citizens' Policy Guide to Urban Growth." published by Thomas Y. Crowell Company. The report recommended reforms to protect areas of environmental value and to accommodate orderly urban development.

Previously, Mr. Reilly worked with the President's Council on Environmental Quality, the Urban Policy Center of what is now the National Urban Coalition, and Yale University.

HOUSE TOUR SATURDAY Tickets Still Available. Tickets are still available for the Princeton-Trenton Mount Holyoke Club house tour, from 12:30 to 5 p.m. this Saturday.

At a tax-deductible $6 each, the tickets can be bought now at Hinkson's and the University Store and will be sold on the day of the tour at tour headquarters outside Princeton Borough Hall next to the Battle Monument.

biennial Open House in Princeton tour, sponsored by area alumnae for the benefit of their alma mater's development fund.

Five Princeton homes and a house on the Lawrenceville School campus are featured this year, all modified from their original appearance.

They range from two Mercer Hill area homes dating back to the 1830s to a recently converted stone stable and an English Tudor Princeton University faculty house dramatically tranformed on the inside and featuring a modern addition.

ANNUAL MEETING SET

By Family Service Agency. The Family Service Agency will hold its annual meeting, Thursday, May 2, at 5:30 at the Unitarian Church. The election of officers and other business will be conducted at 8:30 p.m.

The Board of Directors and Staff will meet at 5:30 for a "pot luck" dinner and discussion of "Family Service - A Change in Priorities". Because the agency is searching for a new director to replace Seymour Plawsky, who left for a position in Toledo, Ohio, the Board and Staff will be reviewing and examining the present and future aims of the Family Service Agency in order to render the most effective services possible to the communities. Mrs. Cora Duncan, Regional Representative of the Family Service Association of America, will be present as a resource person.

Family Service Agency is a member agency of the United Fund and serves individuals and families who work or live within the Fund's area.

Professionally staffed, its purpose is to preserve, strengthen and protect family life, and to promote healthy personality development. Family Service provides counseling and guidance to families and individuals who experience conflict in their interpersonal relationships, and problems in their everyday living. Family Service in addition provides guidance and assistance to families and individuals coping and dealing with environmental conditions and stress, by helping them obtain appropriate community resources. The agency maintains two offices - one at 120 John Street, 609 924-2098, and the second at 100 Mercer Street, Hightstown, 609 448-0056.

COLLECTORS' CHOICE: Mr. and Mrs. James Carey, co-cheirmen of the Princeton YMCA's annual antique show, examine an 18th century toy cradle, one of many items that will be exhibited in a special collectors' choice grouping. Thirty-eight dealers from several states will display their items during the show and sale, which will run from 10 to 10 on Saturday, May 4, and from noon to 6 on Sunday, May 5, at the YMCA on Avalon Place. Donation is $1.50 and proceeds will benefit the YMCA Scholarship Fund.

ANNUAL SALE SET

By Rhododendron Society. Amateur and professional gardeners who want to add prize-winning touches to their shrubbery will have a chance to do so late this month at one of the season's notable flower-growing events.

The prize-winners are the products of Anthony Shammarello, who was awarded the 1973 gold medal of the American Rhododendron Society for his work in developing new rhododendron hybrids; the event is the annual flower sale of the Princeton chapter of the Society.

The sale, whose proceeds go to maintain and expand the Society's public demonstration garden at the Hun School will be held this year at the school's grounds on Saturday, April 27, from 9 to 3, rain or shine.

In offering specimens of all of Shammarello's hybrid rhododendrons, the Princeton chapter will make it possible for collectors to acquire such rarities as his recently introduced "Yaku Princess" and "Yaku Queen." The sale will also have available the new Shammarello azalea, "Red Red."

In an effort to outdo past performances, this year the Society will also feature plants of "Mist Maiden," Dr. David Leach's special selection of Rhododendron Yakusimanum. This is a superior form of the Japanese species, that is considered by many to be the standard by which all other rhododendrons should be judged.

The Society plans to have in stock for this sale plants of various sizes, with prices to fit budgets of any size, from large to small. For the bargain hunter they will also have a number of rooted cuttings of superior rhododendrons and azaleas, and also a large number of small azaleas in various colors. All but the small plants will be budded.

No More House Calls

If you live in the Township and are going on vacation and plan to call Township police to check your house while you're away—don't. Don't call that is.

Chief Frederick Porter announced this week that police will no longer accept requests to check vacant homes over the telephone. Instead, he requested that all residents who wish to have their homes checked during their absence to come to Township Hall and fill out a vacant house card. The cards will be available during working hours at the police administration office or at the police desk during the evening hours.

Chief Porter explained that the change was due to the large number of calls they have received and the resultant paperwork it creates. Taking information over the phone, then typing it on a card creates a hardship for the deskman and interferes with his radio dispatch work, the chief said.

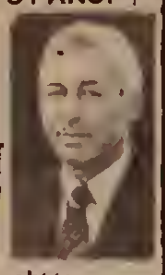
SPORTS FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW



Brought to you
By John Bernard

It's a little known fact hat Jack Nicklaus got started in golf by an accident...He began playing the game literally by a twist of fate...When Jack was 10 years old, his father suffered an ankle injury playing volleyball and his doctor ordered him to walk two hours a day to build up the ankle...The elder Nicklaus decided that since he had to walk that much, he might as well take up golf--and he took Jack with him...That's the way Jack got his start in golf...If his father hadn't been injured, it's likely that Jack would have concentrated on other sports since he had no interest in golf at that time, and he turned to golf only because of his father's injury.

The newest major league in sports--the World Team Tennis League--has some of the most immaginative nicknames in sports ...Most are either tennis flavored or locally oriented: Denver Racquets, New York Sets, San Francisco Golden Gaters, Chicago Aces, Boston Lobsters, Pittsburgh Triangles, Detroit Loves and Baltimore Banners (because the "Star Spangled Banner" was written there).

Of all the regular players in major league baseball today, which ones have the highest lifetime batting averages?...They are Al Bumbry .338, Rich-Coggins .320, Ralph Garr .318 and Rod Carew .316.

I bet you didn't know tbat the cost of building a house is up about 9 percent over last year. Maybe you should check the amount of fire insurance on your dwelling. Are you aware of the lumber shortage in the U.S.?

Tiger Nine Strengthens Hold on First Place--Now Must Play 6 of Its Last 9 Games on Road

Princeton's baseball team, outright owner of first place in the Eastern League as the lone unbeaten entry out of ten, begins the more difficult portion of its 14-game schedule this weekend. Having won all five of their games at home so far, the Tigers now must play six of the last nine on the road.

They will be at Pennsylvania for a single contest Friday afternoon and at Baker Field in New York to face Columbia Saturday in a doubleheader. They will need to win at least two out of these three games to stay in charge of the 1974 race.

After jumping out to a good start ten days ago on the strength of a triumph over Brown and a sweep of a doubleheader with Yale, the Orange and Black's quest for its first league title in 21 years was given major impetus when it swept a twin bill with Navy while other favorites—Harvard, Penn and Cornell—all split two games.

On top of that, whereas Friday's rain did not find the Tigers booked for league action, it forced postponements to Sunday for eight other teams.

Consecutive Shutouts. It is difficult from Princeton's point of view to say what was most rewarding in its 6-0 and 11-0 triumphs over Navy: the fact that the midshipmen failed to score at all, or the ability of the Princeton batters to pound out 22 hits good for 30 bases and 17 runs in just 12 innings.

Actually, it is Princeton's power at the plate that has its fans somewhat pop-eyed. Over the years, good pitching has been a hallmark of Tigers teams, almost as regularly as has weak hitting. Three years ago, for example, Princeton shut out Columbia in both halves of a twin bill, the the scores were 1-0 and 3-0. This season, the team batting average is well over .300; last spring it was .188.

Coach Eddie Donovan's collection of sophomores and seniors—unless pitcher Scott McHenry is on the mound, no member of the Class of 1975 starts the game—lost no time going to work on Navy hurler Lou Repicci, who was 3-0 coming into the game. With one out, shortstop Steve Brown and third baseman Ed Kuchar walked and Captain Ken Beytin delivered Brown with a single to right—his first of four during the afternoon.

Another run in the second increased the lead, with three in the third fairly well deciding the outcome of the seven-inning contest. Sophomore rightfielder Jon Blodgett beat out a bunt to the pitcher to open the third, was forced at second by Brown but Kuhar and Beytin singled sharply to center to bring about a Navy pitching change. After sophomore center fielder Glenn Christy walked, sophomore catcher Kevin Plunkett lined a single to left and Princeton led, 5-0.

A triple to left center by Brown and a long double just inside the left foul line produced the final Princeton run in the fourth. Meanwhile, sophomore righthander Mark Softy was throwing a two-hitter which saw only one midshipmen reach second.

Softy struck out 11, largely because his curve was working to perfection, bailing him out repeatedly when his fast stuff was high or wide. He now has 22 strikeouts in 16 innings or work within the league and is 5-0 on the season. He will go aginst Penn Friday.

Eight-Run Fifth. After a triple by senior thirdbaseman Steve Loy drove in a first inning run in the nightcap, the Tigers added a cluster of two in the fourth and then sent 11 men to the plate in the fifth, eight of them scoring. Kuchar, seeing action this time as the designated hitter, contributed a single in his first time up and a bases-loaded double that scored three the second time he showed up at the plate.

Navy used three pitchers, who yielded 13 hits that included three doubles and a triple. McHenry, getting stronger as he went, scattered three hits and allowed only one runner to reach third.

All this may not last, as the opposition grows stronger, six of the remaining nine games re played on unfamiliar diamonds and the prospect of winning the 1974 championship tends to increase the pressure on the younger Tigers. Nonetheless, they are playing good baseball and, astonishingly enough, have scored 128 runs in their first 14 games this year compared to 2 in all 31 they played a year ago.

In non-league action, Princeton dropped a 6-5 decision last Wednesday to Montclair State, going down to defeat in the last of the ninth after having twice come from behind. Relief pitcher Doug rentz induced one batter to it into a double play with runners on second and third but then followed with two walks—the first intentional—to force in the winning run.

The Tigers had a chance to do more than tie the score in the top of the inning when they ushed their fifth run across nd had the bases loaded with ne away. But somewhat true o form, even in these days of ar stronger hitting, the next wo men struck out.

Monday saw the Tiger nine evert to its less appealing orm of other years when it ade more errors (four) than it did hits (three) and failed to handle routine defensive plays satisfactorily. As a result, a Rider nine that was no better than 7-7 prevailed, 4 to 1, the s dropping Princeton to 11-

A solo home run that barely cleared the 344-foot sign got he visitors off in front in the ird, the score coming as the irst off sophomore Mike rench after he had hurled 17 hutout innings over a four-ame span. One round later, e neglected to cover home in me on a short wild pitch and a runner beat the relay to make it 2-0.

The Orange and Black had a fine chance to draw even in the last of the sixth when it placed men on second and third with none out. They stayed there as Steve Loy and Ed Kuchar popped to short and Ken Beytin looked at a third strike. The losers' only run came in the last of the eighth, Steve Brown coming home on a double by Kuchar.

A Wednesday contest with Rutgers on Clarke Field was scheduled to precede the three weekend league games.

LACROSSE TEAM SPLITS

In First Two Ivy Games. Beaten by Brown, 13-7, in its first Ivy League contest this spring, the Princeton lacrosse team raised its record to the break-even point Saturday with an easy 9-3 conquest of Yale. The Elis had held Brown, one of the better teams in the league, to an 8-6 victory, so that the Tigers' margin over the Blue was a welcome surprise.

At Providence last week, Princeton was even at 2-all at the end of the first period, but the home team produced all of the next seven goals to break the contest open. Billy Chaires accounted for three of the Tigers' total, with Jon Pettit adding a pair.

On Finney Field, Saturday, Princeton moved out to a 4-1 lead before the intermission and added to its advantage when play resumed. Pettit, Chaires and John Stone each were credited with two goals.

The Tigers were scheduled to play host to Penn this Wednesday, and travel to Hanover for a game with Dartmouth Saturday. Army will be here next Wednesday, May 1. The team's record after trimming Yale was 2-6, the triumph snapping a five-game losing streak.

CLIFTON HERE SATURDAY

For PHS Lacrosse Home Opener. On the road for its first three games, the Princeton High School lacrosse team will play its home opener Saturday against Clifton at the PHS football field. Starting time is 1 p.m.

"We're going to put banners up and I'd like to see a lot of people there," said PHS coach Bill Cirullo, who has done a fine job so far in his first year as coach. "I feel confident," he said. "We're playing good competition and we're not getting our pants beat off."

PHS is 2-1 following Friday's tough sudden-death loss to Pingry. Earlier, the Little Tigers routed Clark Lacrosse Club, 9-2, in a contest that officially has to be ruled a scrimmage, Cirullo reported, after Clark was informed by the NJSIAA Committee that it was ineligible to play high school teams because it is a club and not a school team.

Monday, PHS will play host to Lawrenceville School in a 3:45 game and to Hun on Wednesday at 3:30. This Wednesday afternoon it was scheduled to be at Blair Academy.

Six-Race Regatta on Lake Saturday--Penn Will Test Unbeaten Tiger 150s

A six-race regatta, featuring Harvard's second-ranked heavyweight shell and Princeton's undefeated 150-lb. crew, will be staged Saturday on Lake Carnegie. The races will be the last of the brief season here.

The Tiger lightweights, who have gone since May, 1972, since they were last beaten, will meet a stiff challenge from the University of Pennsylvania. Princeton will defend the Wood-Hammond Cup against the Quakers.

First away from the stake boats will be the freshman 'fifties at 2:50. The jayvee and varsity lightweights will follow at 20-minute intervals; the freshmen heavyweight shells from Princeton, Harvard and M.I.T. will row at 3:50, followed by the jayvees at 4:10 and the varsities at 4:30. Harvard will defend the Compton Cup, with all races covering 2,000 meters.

The 150-lb. crew had its problems edging a good Rutgers boat on Carnegie last weekend, keeping its string of 13 straight triumphs intact by a half-length victory over the Scarlet. tts winning time was 6:12.4 to 6:14.5 for Rutgers. Drexel and Cornell trailed by open water.

Princeton's jayvees won from Cornell by a length, with Rutgers third. The freshman race went to Rutgers, with Princeton second and Cornell last.

Pennsylvania swept the Harlem River from Princeton and Columbia Saturday, taking the Childs Cup for the ninth consecutive year. Leading from the start, the Quakers were three lengths better than the Tigers at the finish and seven better than Columbia.

Princeton was second in each of the three races. The varsity has beaten Rutgers this year, but lost to Navy and Penn and will be a distinct underdog to Harvard Saturday.

Here's a new one--a Boston doctor has found a way to remove a kidney, operate on it, and return it to the patient, up to 30 hours later. Method is said to spare patient the ordeal of long surgery.

Why NOT take massive doses of vitamins? According to the AMA Department of Foods and Nutrition, you can create a drug dependency; stopping can cause a self-induced "deficiency".

"We lost a very tough game," acknowledged Cirullo after the Pingry heartbreaker. PHS, which lead all the way, was nursing a 3-2 lead with 1:45 to go when PHS was called for a slashing foul and Pingry managed to tie the game.

In the first four-minute overtime, John Figueroa put PHS ahead again after one minute of play. But again, a slashing foul whistled against a falling Mace Mohrman with 45 seconds left gave Pingry a man advantage and the home team promptly capitalized.

After a scoreless second overtime, the game went into sudden death.

Three minutes later, Pingry, whose only lose this season was a 6-4 setback to Boonton, last year's top team in the state, scored to win, 5-4. Cirullo described it as a "rock goal." Princeton's goalie was in position but the ball hit a rock in front of the crease and it skewered off to one side into the net.

"It was a long, long game and the team performed well, but we didn't discipline ourselves to control the ball when we had tn," Cirullo commented. "The defense looked extremely good."

Sharing in the honors for PHS in its losing cause was goalie Keith Rendall who had 22 saves...for "one of the most outstanding games I've ever seen," said Cirullo. PHS had 39 shots on goal. Others who scored for PHS were Mark Campbell and Ted Baruch.

Cirullo said that he was disappointed in the outcome, of course, but he added he did not want to take anything away from Pingry which played an excellent game. The game was costly for the Little Tigers when defenseman Guy Mendelson injured his ankle and may be lost for weeks.

38 Shots on Goal. Against previously undefeated Clark (2-0) PHS took 38 shots on goal, nine of them going in.

Ron Campbell, Mace Mohrman and Campbell each had two goals while Baruch, Paul Warfield and freshman Matt Adriance added single tallies.

HUN VS. LARRIES

On Saturday. A big prep school battle will take place Saturday when the Hun School baseball team entertains Lawrenceville. Starting time is 2 p.m.

On Monday at 3:30, Hun will play host to Pennsylvania School for the Deaf and on Wednesday it will oppose Academy of New Church. The latter game will be played on the Hun diamond at 3:15. This Wednesday, Hun was scheduled to be at Perkiomen.

The weatherman still has an advantage over Hun. Friday's game with George School was rained out--Hun's third--but the Red and Black did manage to get its second game of the season in last week when it routed visiting Friends Central, 15-0.

Hun scored two in the first, four in the second, two more in the fifth and seven in the sixth inning. The most damaging of Hun's 11 hits were a bases-loaded triple by Dave Pone and a two-run double by Tony Trani.

The visitors got two hits off starter Dave Clark of Hun--both in the first inning. Clark went four frames and when Hun built up its big lead, coach Bill McQuade used the opportunity to give some experience to other members of his mound staff. Sophomore Joe Herrmann pitched two innings of hitless ball and Jon Vidabeck hurled the last inning.

McQuade is hoping for a period of dry weather so that Hun can start playing consistently. "I'm anxious to play some ball," he said. He acknowledged that the three rain outs "could cause me some problems later in the season."

SAILING CLUB RESULTS

Skinner and Field Victors. Warm weather and brisk winds brought a total of eight Laser and 15 Sunfish skippers to Sunday afternoon's Carnegie Sailing Club races. John Skinner won convincingly in the Sunfish fleet with victories in five of six races. Dick Jesser was second, and Tom Huntington third.

The Lasers sailed seven closely fought races, with a steady performance bringing

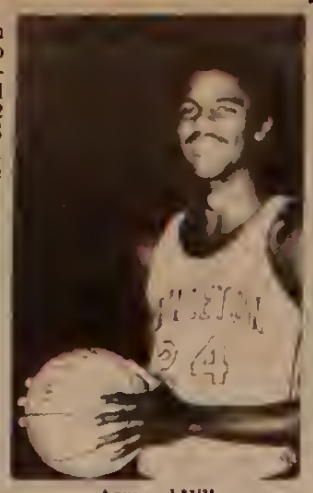
Hill Named Co-Captain of Tiger Five



Armond Hill

Mickey Steurer

Armond Hill, the sophomore who was required to withdraw from college last winter for academic reasons, has become the first Princeton undergraduate to be named to an athletic captaincy while not a member of the student body. His Tiger basketball teammates have elected him a co-captain for the 1974-75 season -- contingent on his readmission in September.

Mickey Steurer, whose play at guard in his first year on the varsity was constantly impressive, has also been elected a co-captain. If Hill is not readmitted, Steurer will share the captaincy with Tim Van Bloomesteyn '75.

Steurer -- and possibly Hill will be the first non-senior captains in basketball since Joe Holman was so honored as a junior in 1948. The last co-captains in the sport -- a rarity at Princeton -- were John Hummer, now with the Chicago Bulls, and Geoff Petrie of the Portland Trail Blazers. They were seniors in 1969-70.

the day's best average to Todd Field. Tad LaFountain was second and there was a tie for third between Alex Smigelski and Lloyd Kitchin.

In addition to counting toward the regular series, races for the last two weeks have constituted a special Interfleet Series. Trophies go to the skippers with the best averages in each fleet; an overall trophy is given for the best average in either fleet.

The overall winner and Laser fleet victor was Tad LaFountain. Dan Mazzarella won in the Sunfish fleet.

A CONCRETE CANOE?

Yes... and It Floats. College crazes can embrace anything—and do—so it should come as no surprise that one of the more recent is the construction of concrete canoes. And the current champions are two Princeton University students.

Alan H. Stone and William L. Lewis, both 22-year old civil engineering majors at Princeton University, this spring won the second annual Concrete Canoe Race held in Philadelphia, triumphing over 39 other entries from 23 other colleges.

The next scheduled contest is a challenge match against Rutgers University Saturday, May 4, on the Raritan River; and there is an invitation from Notre Dame to compete in South Bend.

The 14-foot orange and black concrete canoe built by Stone and Lewis—a senior independent work project approved by their advisor—consists of 180 pounds of ferro cement and wire mesh, a coating of epoxy resin and a layer of paint. Their project began last fall after the two, both former high school football captains—Stone is from Richmond, Va.; Lewis from Seattle, Wash.—heard of a concrete canoe race sponsored a year ago by the University of Pennsylvania's student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

They spent a term designing it after running a series of material tests, computer programs and engineering studies. Testing during the fall led the pair to use styrofoam balls as an aggregate in place of rock in the cement. This reduced the density by about two-thirds, resulting, Stone and Lewis feel, in a major design innovation.

They stretched quarter-inch wire mesh over plywood templets to shape the boat. Concrete was put on by hand with the help of friends After finding the canoe was too thick in some places, the two ground off about 50 pounds of concrete, placing it in the low weight category as far as cement canoes go. Some entries in the Penn race weighed almost 500 pounds. An epoxy coating was then applied over the porous concrete.

Still, a concrete canoe is a concrete canoe, and both admit that a headwind leaves their arms "feeling like jelly" after a workout on Lake Carnegie. Fortunately both have the brawn to propel the craft. Lewis lifts weights and Stone stays in condition playing rugby, after switching from his high school sports of football and lacrosse.

Commenting on their victory in the Penn race, the two sailors said, "We knew our boat was better than anyone else's; our problem was learning to paddle it in a straight line." That was a problem that they also solved.

FERRANTE PACES PDS

Against Hun School. Princeton Day School's lacrosse team, which knocked off Hun, 8-4, last week, plays two more B games this week that it needs to win to continue the run toward the B state championship. The Panthers play Madison Lacrosse Club on Wednesday and the Lawrenceville School B team Friday.

The key to success in those games, according to Coach Chuck Simpson, is whether or not the Panthers can produce some scoring punch to equal that of Cam Ferrante, the team captain who has begun the season with an extremely hot hand. A B-division all-stater last year, Ferrante scored five goals against Hun.

"He really took that game into his own hands," said Simpson. "This year he will be eligible for the all-state A-team, and the Hun coach and the officials of that game all agreed that he ought to make it." The other goals against Hun were scored by Johnny Bragg, Tom Moore and Dich Gordon.

"We're expecting Bragg in particular to help balance our attack," says Simpson. "Last year he scored as many goals as Cam–in fact, he outscored Cam in the second half of the season. So far this year he's just been missing by inches."

PDS dominated the Hun game, scoring the first three goals and leading 4-2, at the half. In the third period the Panthers outscored the Red and Black, 3-0. Hun scored twice in the final two minutes of the game against the PDS second team. PDS had two minutes of penalties to Hun's seven.

The Panther game Friday against the George School was cancelled because of inclement field conditions. "George had two inches of water all over its field and the coach just didn't want to ruin it." says Simpson.

WOMEN'S TENNIS HERE

Play Starts Friday. The Middle States Intercollegiate women's singles and doubles titles will be on the line for the 32nd year this weekend, with Princeton University hosting the tournament for the first time.

Previously held at Bryn Mawr and for the last two years at Westchester State Teachers' College, the event will start at 9 Friday on the University courts, and continue through Sunday. It has a draw of 32 singles and 18 doubles team entrants, representing approximately 15 colleges in the Delaware, New Jersey and Pennsylvania area.

Princeton University is the defending champion, having won this tournament the past two years. The tournament is open to the public without charge; in case of rain, play will move indoors to Jadwin Gymnasium.

1ST TOURNAMENT HELD

At Springdale Golf Club. The 1974 season began last weekend at Springdale Golf Club when a foursome composed of Bill Quackenbush, the University golf coach; Maurice Coffee, Jim McKinnon and Toms Royal won an 18-hole tournament.

A total of 27 foursomes competed, all players using full handicaps in stroke play. The best two balls on each hole were used to compute the scores, the winners' total of 130 besting par by a dozen strokes.

One shot behind at 131 were Will Reed, Corky Arnett and Jim Beyer and Don Stuart. In third place were Stanley Apple, Bob McCarthy, Lyle Fitch and Burt Weisbecker, at 135.

Play will begin Saturday in the annual Governor's Cup tournament. Two-man teams will qualify over 18 holes, with the first round match play starting Sunday morning.
